Ohio Time Change Expected On Feb. 14

OBSERVERS SEE ACTION ON TUESDAY

Senate Must Act on Emergency Measure as Passed By House 106 to 26.

OPPOSITION GROWING

Legislators 'Might Change Minds' After Week-End Recess at Homes.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The Ohio general assembly has decided to turn the state's clocks back an hour, but legislators still must decide when the much-debated event will occur.

"Time-changers" in the assembly confidently predicted the change would be made by Sunday, Feb. 14. But an element of uncertainty appeared today as the legislators went "back home" for the week-end, some of them to cities which have begun to express opposition to the change.

The house of representatives yesterday approved the time change 106 to 26. The senate had approved the bill 22 to 8 Tuesday.

Only point of difference to be resolved between the senate and house versions of the bill when the legislature reconvenes next week will be an emergency clause rejected by the senate but approved by the house, which would make the change the first Sunday after the bill is enacted and signed by the governor.

The house passed the emergency clause 104 to 28, a comfortable margin over the necessary two-thirds vote. The senate, voting 20 to 10 for the emergency clause, fell two votes short of the necessary 22 votes.

Senate time changers, in an effort to rally the two additional votes for the emergency clause, today counted votes and talked to colleagues who might be persuaded to swing over when the matter comes before them again, probably Tuesday.

There was notable lack of opposition to the change in the first days of the session but both senators and representatives have entered the lists against the bill after recent week-ends at home.

City councils of East Liverpool and Wellsville have gone on record against the change; merchants of Steubenville have op-

GOOD LECTURE!

Father of Soldier Persuades Strikers To Go To Work.

NEW YORK—(INS)—His three-hour-old goodbye to his 18-year old son reporting for army induction still fresh in his mind, Police Captain John Collins just couldn't conceive a strike by workers producing medical supplies for the U. S. army.

So today, sixty workers of the Acme Laboratory Equipment company are back at their benches working harder than ever.

Notified of the sit-down, in protest to delay of the war labor board in ruling on wage increase demands, Captain Collins called at the plant and gave a lecture. He told of soldiers, like his son Tom, yet to be wounded, whose lives might be saved by medical equipment which his audience was failing to produce.

As a man, all sixty workers returned to their jobs with redoubled efforts to make up lost time.

Galion 'Good Fighters' Look With Pride at Army-Navy 'E'

GALION — The Army-Navy "E" flew from the staff at the Perfection Steel Body company here today in recognition of that company's "high achievement in the production of war materiel."

First plant to be awarded the coveted flag in the North Central Ohio area, the Perfection company received the honor at impressive ceremonies attended by high army and navy officials yesterday afternoon.

In the words of Lieut. Col. A. F. Witte of the Cleveland Ordnance district, the flag stands as "proof that the Galion company and its employes have fought a good fight." He added, confidently, that "the truck bodies and anti-aircraft parts you are turning out are going to smash the Axis."

The citation was an honor for the entire plant personnel from President Harry Cobey on down through the ranks. Every employe was the proud possessor today of the Army-Navy "E" button.

Opening with a parade headed by the Galion post American Legion and the Galion high school band through the down town district, the program unfolded at the high school where employes and guests packed the auditorium before a flag-draped stage.

It was here that messages of congratulations were read from President Roosevelt, Ohio's two senators, the eighth district representative in congress, Gov. John W. Bricker and other officials high in state and federal government circles.

Greater Mansfield Quota In Roll Call Placed at $45,500

Greater Mansfield will be asked to contribute $45,500 of the $59,000 sought by the Richland county Chapter of the Red Cross in its 1943 War Fund Roll Call under the three major quotas set up by the campaign committee headed by L. W. Birch.

The local quota was determined last night with Shelby accepting a quota of $10,500. The county's share, outside of Mansfield and Shelby, has been fixed at $3,000. Birch and a number of other members from the county chapter including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black, Mrs. O. D. Fair and Mrs. Birch attended the Shelby chapter meeting last night.

Appointment of campaign leaders will be completed within the next week, Birch said today. Chairmen will be named to head such divisions as industry, retailers, national distributors, women's clubs, men's organizations and city, county and federal groups.

CASHES CHIPS

Killer Dies Before Firing Squad In Prison Yard.

SALT LAKE CITY (UP) Walter Robert Avery, 34, killer of a detective and author of a death cell autobiography comparing himself to a gambler caught with marked cards, "cashed in his chips" before a firing squad at daybreak today in the state prison yard.

Witnesses could not tell whether Avery kept his promise to face the executioners' rifles with a smile because a black mask was fitted over his face when he left death row. He displayed no emotion as he was marched to the yard and strapped in an oak chair.

Avery shot and killed Detective Hoyt Gates of Ogden in 1941 during a grocery store robbery.

Civilian Defense Workers to Attend 3-Day War Gas School

Air wardens, auxiliary police, auxiliary firemen and others enrolled in Mansfield's Civilian Defense organization will receive practical demonstration instruction in war gases at a three-day school training Tuesday under the auspices of Company F and conducted by ranking officers of the Ohio State Guard.

Mandatory orders to attend the outdoor demonstration at the state armory, Ashland road, at 5 p. m. Tuesday have been issued to certain of the civilian defense personnel by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense co-ordinator. Capt. Glenn Bierly has ordered all officers and men of Company F to attend this session, as well as a session at 7 p. m. solely for the military personnel.

Admission to this and succeeding demonstration classes at John Simpson Junior high school will be by civilian defense, military police or fire identification only with the probability that the 7:30 p. m. meetings Wednesday and Thursday may be made public.

The Ohio State Guard mobile war gas units will arrive in Mansfield Saturday with Col. Earl W. Brannon commanding. Major Fred L. Williams of the Ohio State university, is senior instructor with Capt. Edward B. Rosser, Chillicothe, assistant. Capt. Bierly and officers of Company F and selected enlisted men will assist in all demonstrations.

Tuesday's outdoor demonstration of actual war gases will permit all to gain a knowledge of their characteristics, how to identify the various gases and what protection to put in force. During their Mansfield visit the Guard officers, with headquarters at the Mansfield-Leland hotel and Company F armory, will be available for conferences with industrial leaders or plant protection officers.

FALL AT SHELBY KILLS ENGINEER

Railroader Plunges 25 Feet Into Creek Bed as He Gets Off of Train.

SHELBY Harry C. Lecklider, 59, of Cleveland, engineer on a New York Central passenger train, died in Shelby Memorial hospital at 11:05 p. m. yesterday an hour after he fell from a bridge at the depot here.

Train crew members found Lecklider's body at the bottom of a 25-foot drop from the bridge over the Blackfork creek. He fell as he stepped from the engine cab. Still conscious when an ambulance arrived, he complained of internal pains which Coroner Blake Kohler said were due to internal injuries which caused his death.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman and Shelby police assisted Kohler in investigating the circumstances of the accident.

The officers theorized that because of an additional coach or two on the train, the engine may not have stopped at the usual place. Customarily, the engineer walks backward and lowers himself to the ground when he releases his hand hold. Apparently, the officers believe, Lecklider misjudged location of the engine, and when he released his hold dropped to the creek bank below.

Judge's Order to Rid Jail of Gambling Equipment, Alcohol

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston today issued orders for disposal of gambling equipment and other contraband valued at thousands of dollars which has been stored in the basement of the county jail after confiscation by county officers over the past several years.

In line with conservation measures of the present emergency, the judge ordered destruction of only those things which have no salvage value and which can be used only for illegal purposes, with the bulk of the contraband to be put into institutional use.

Most of the illegal articles were seized in a gambling raid in November, 1941 at the Eureka Inn, on Route 30-N, and in connection with which George Talbott was charged with unlawfully keeping and operating gambling devices. Also included is about 300 gallons of alcohol confiscated about nine years ago during prohibition days when a truck loaded with it overturned. The driver or owner of the truck was never located with the confiscated intoxicant being held as evidence against him if and when he was found.

Owing to its high value for medicinal purposes, the judge ordered 50 gallons of the high test alcohol to be turned over by Sheriff F. E. Robinson to the Richland County

HUNT MOBSTER

Police Seek Ex-Convict In Model's Torch Murder.

CHICAGO —(INS) Eddie McGrath, ex-convict leader of a New York waterfront mob and lieutenant to Joe Adonis, Brooklyn racket king, was sought for questioning today in the bizarre torch murder of Estelle Carey, one time "queen of the dice girls," the Chicago Herald-American said in a copyright story.

The dead girl had been sweetheart, confidante and banker of Nick Circella, alias Nick Dean, Capone syndicate collector in the stagehands' union and reputedly had "talked" recently to internal revenue agents investigating income taxes of the union's head men.

With Estelle's death came word that George E. Browne, Dean and Willie Bioff, all convicted of extorting millions from the Hollywood movie industry, had been giving valuable information to prosecutors in a New York federal lockup, which threw terror into the Capone syndicate and the eastern mob.

Request For Naming of Air Depot Goes to McGregor.

SHELBY - Five petitions asking that the $3,000,000 army air force supply depot north of Shelby be named for Capt. Elmer Parsel, Plymouth flier killed in a plane crash in India last year, had been completed today in Shelby and will be sent to Congressman J. Harry McGregor.

The big army supply project has been designated so far as the Mansfield army supply depot.

Ohioans Cut Their Driving Total by 371 Million Miles

COLUMBUS (UP) Harry E. Neal, chief of the division of traffic and safety, reported today that Ohio motorists traveled 371,000,000 miles less in 1942 than in 1941 on highways outside of municipalities with a consequent drop of traffic fatalities and accidents.

Fatalities dropped 37 per cent while accidents declined 32 per cent. There were 530 fatalities reported in 1942 compared with 869 in 1941 and accidents declined from 16,268 in 1941 to 10,979 in 1942.

Hal G. Sours, state highway director, said the favorable trend in both accidents and deaths was to be expected because of the decline in travel due to rubber and gasoline shortages.

Collisions between motor vehicles were responsible for two-thirds of all traffic accidents reported last year. Deaths from that type of accident totaled 227 as compared to 416 during 1941. Pedestrian deaths were 100 last year, 37 less than 1941.

(By Associated Press)

British home-based bombers thundered destruction upon Hitler's vaunted "European fortress" with triple fury before dawn today, attacking northern Italy, the German Ruhr and Nazi-occupied France in the most sweeping single night's operations ever attempted by the RAF.

In Italy, the RAF blasted the royal arsenal city of Turin and the port of Spezia, main northern base of the Italian navy, 130 miles southeast of Turin.

In France, the raiders delivered a "heavy and concentrated" assault on the German U-boat nest at Lorient, with good weather helping the bombardiers to find their targets.

In Germany, the RAF once again pounded war foundries of the Ruhr industrial valley.

The British said Turin was heavily bombed and declared that the city's defenses, "though clearly strengthened, were no more effective than in December."

Despite the scope of the raids, only three RAF planes were listed as missing.

The raids marked the RAF's third successive night foray over Europe and capped a 24-hour of-40 Japanese Ships Are Sighted Near Guadalcanal as Fights Recur.

BULLETIN

LONDON —(UP)— The Nazi Paris radio said today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of China had arrived in San Francisco.

(By Associated Press)

First word of a large Japanese sea-borne force bearing down on Guadalcanal island came in delayed dispatches from the South seas battlefront today as official secrecy continued to shroud developments in an expected showdown battle between the American and Japanese fleets.

In Washington, the navy reported "recurrent engagements" by opposing naval and air forces in the Solomon islands theater, but declared Tokyo radio reports of a big naval fight already in progress were false.

Censor-passed dispatches from Guadalcanal dated Feb. 1 declared:

"Aerial observers reported tonight that a large force of Jap warships headed for Guadalcanal. Some observers think the Japs hope to bolster their tottering Guadalcanal ground forces with reinforcements."

"The dispatch quoted Flight Leader Major Narce Whitaker, of Toxana, Ky., as saying he observed between 30 and 40 Japanese ships, many of them warships, in Shortland harbor 150 miles north of Guadalcanal.

A Tokyo broadcast had previously asserted, without confirmation, that Japanese forces attacked American warships off Rennell island, 100 miles south of Guadalcanal on Feb. 1, the date of the Guadalcanal dispatch.

There was no immediate indication, either from Washington or Guadalcanal itself, that the Japanese had been able to land reinforcements on the prize island, although latest advices said American planes strafed enemy barges off Guadalcanal on Tuesday.

The navy said, however, that U. S. Army troops still were pressing forward against Japanese positions on the island, killing 39 of the enemy and driving the in-

PILING UP: Davies Adds to Speculation on Hitler's Death

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The possibility that Adolf Hitler may be dead and that a weakening German military machine might resort to poison gas and bacteriological warfare, was advanced today by Joseph E. Davies, former U. S. ambassador to Russia.

The New York Daily News commented editorially earlier in the week on the likelihood of Hitler's death.

Speaking on a nation-wide broadcast Davies interpreted the absence of a Hitler address on the recent 10th anniversary of the Nazi party's rise to power and the present funeral pall over the Reich as evidence that Hitler has died.

"These days of mourning and grief in Germany, supposedly because of the Stalingrad defeat, and the fact that Hitler did not make his 10th anniversary speech last week, suggest the possibility that Hitler is dead," Davies declared.

A speaker on the "March of Time" program Davies warned, however, that even if the Nazi leader has passed on, his ideology still lives in the hearts and minds of the German people.

"The Nazi party with its industrial Fascists and military leaders is still alive," he declared. "These elements which have destroyed the liberties of half of Europe and started two world wars in 25 years make Germany a menace to every other nation in the world and even though Hitler were dead, the

ASSIST: United Nations Get Full French African Resources

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(INS Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—The entire military resources of French West Africa—military, naval and air—were handed over to the United Nations cause today.

In an interview with the press following a meeting of the French imperial council, Governor-General Pierre Boisson of French North Africa made formal announcement that all naval and air facilities at Dakar, plus a crack Senegalese army of 100,000 men, have been placed "entirely at the disposal of the Allies."

French West Africa and all its equipment, he said, has been turned over to Gen. Henri Honore Giraud "for use in the common aid of winning the war against Germany."

Not the least of the acquisitions thus gained are powerful units of the French fleet. These include the 35,000-ton battleship Richelieu, which was damaged in an engagement with British and De Gaullist forces, but presumably can be repaired, plus three 7,600-ton cruisers, three

GETS DETAILS ON NEW SYSTEM

Civilian Defense Chairman Gets Instructions on Air Raid Signals.

Details of Ohio's new air raid warning system have been received by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Mansfield's civilian defense coördinator, and instructions are being prepared for wardens and chiefs of other war protection services and industrial plant protection officers.

According to Ralph H. Stone, state defense director, the revised system will be the same as is used by eastern seaboard states and its adoption was decided on after a year-long survey by army and OCD officers.

Features of the new system include:

Blue Signal—First public warning, consisting of a long, steady blast advising of the probable approach of enemy planes. On the signal, Stone said, civilian defense personnel will take their posts and blackout measures will be placed in effect, except for certain war plants and transportation which will continue under precautionary arrangements.

Red Signal—Actual raid alarm, consisting of wailing or choppy blasts and meaning that hostile planes are overhead and that all pedestrians should take cover.

Blue Signal—Another steady blast, signaling that enemy planes have departed but that caution should be observed lest they return immediately.

No "all clear" will be sounded but radio announcements and relighting of street lamps will indicate the danger has passed. At present, the first public alarm is a wailing or choppy signal calling for blackout conditions, followed by a steady "all clear" blast advising that the raid has ended.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR CHURCH CENSUS OPENING NEXT MONDAY

Mansfield Religious Census organization completed plans today for the launching of a house-to-house canvass Monday night to determine the church preference of every household in Mansfield.

Although the start of the conference is still three days away, about five per cent of the 1,000 workers named for the canvass have completed their rounds and submitted final reports to the census headquarters in the Walpark building.

Ralph Stanton, general chairman, said that complete reports had been slowly filtering into headquarters for several days and that the workers reported "hearty cooperation" from every home contacted so far. Workers, he again pointed out, have been instructed to obtain only factual information and have been cautioned not to engage in controversy when making their calls.

Ministers of the 33 churches participating in the census will head the undertaking as colonels. Precinct majors and census workers come from the ranks of the membership of the cooperating churches.

The names of persons not having a church home but denoting a preference for a particular denomination will be referred to the churches in question after the census. The project is entirely non-sectarian and its sponsors include Protestant, Catholic and Jewish organizations.

RICHLAND T. B. GROUP ELECTS

Wayne Carlton, Shelby, Named To Head Association at Organization Session.

Wayne Carlton, Shelby, was elected president of the Richland County Tuberculosis association at last night's annual meeting in the city-county health department offices. Carlton succeeds Dr. Francis Heringhaus, now a major in the Army Medical corps.

Other officers for 1943 are: Jesse Clark, principal of Western avenue school, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Gorman, re-elected treasurer; Robert Green, Shelby, re-elected secretary. Mrs. Margaret S. Adams continues as executive secretary and director of field operations.

Members of the board of directors are Dr. W. H. Wolford, Mrs. Zora Weimer and Mrs. Emma Belle Fort of Mansfield; Mrs. Ruth Newcomer, Lexington; Miss Mary Lucille Bushey, Shelby, and Dr. Esther Mast, Lexington.

Creation of an advisory board was decided on with Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner; Dr. B. H. Moffat, Shelby health commissioner; Dr. Orrin Beatty, Boyd Robinson, county schools superintendent, and Superintendent W. L. Miller of Mansfield public schools being named. These members will name associates representing the Richland County Medical society.

R. L. Lewis of the Ohio Public Health association, Columbus, was a guest. He paid high tribute to the progress of Richland county's war against tuberculosis and commended the association for a successful Christmas Seal sale which finances the program.

CONVENTION ADOPTS MANSFIELD MINISTER'S RECOMMENDATION

A Mansfield minister's recommendation for an enlarged religious education program in the public schools throughout Ohio was unanimously adopted at the closing session of the 21th annual Ohio Pastors' convention in Columbus yesterday.

Rev. J. Campbell White of the United Presbyterian church presented the recommendation which called for a thorough discussion of the subject at the 1944 state convention. The plan provides for the placement of qualified religious education instructors in the schools and optional enrollment by the pupils.

The Mansfield Council of Religious Education recently voted to raise a $10,000 budget before April 1, in order to supply religious education instruction to all grades in the local schools. At present only the third and fourth grades are receiving instruction.

The convention attended by 1,975 registered delegates and highlighted by the appearance of such notables as Dr. E. Stanley Jones, former missionary to India, and Carl J. Hambro, president of the League of Nations, drew six Mansfield ministers. They were: Rev. E. G. Corwin, Rev. A. L. Linder, Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, Rev. J. L. Boyer, Rev. C. L. Kern, and Rev. White.

RITES SUNDAY

J. J. High, 81, Was Farmer at New Washington.

NEW WASHINGTON — John Jacob High, 81, retired farmer, died at his home in New Washington Thursday after an illness of eight months.

He was born on April 26, 1861, in Cranberry township, Crawford county, the son of Michael and Mary Donnenwirth High. His marriage to Miss Ellen Tribolet occurred on April 9, 1885, Mrs. High preceding him in death on Nov. 12, 1941.

Five children survive, Mrs. A. G. Eckstein, Mrs. C. L. Springer and Mrs. Marie Neagel of New Washington, Carl of Muskegon, Mich., and John of Kokomo, Ind. W. A. High, Rudolph High and Miss Mary High are brothers and sisters.

Baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran church, Mr. High remained a faithful member of St. John's church where funeral services will be conducted on Sunday at 2:30 p. m., with Rev. Paul Gerlach officiating. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

SHE'S WORRIED

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan, of Waterloo, Ia., has one worry besides the navy report that her five sons are missing aboard the U. S. S. Juneau. She's afraid she won't get home by next week—in time to pay her gas bill.

"It's been a wonderful trip so far," the Sullivans, a little breathless from the whirlwind tour of defense plants in Washington and Baltimore, agree. Sullivan, who lets "the Mrs." do most of the talking, said he will appeal to war workers to maintain a perfect attendance record.

Start Check of Ballots Marked For Y. W. Election

Ballots for the election of eight Y. W. C. A. trustees and a five-member nominating committee will be counted Saturday by the tellers appointed by the organization to give the report at the annual business meeting of the association Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the building.

The two slates were recently mailed to the membership and ballots arriving after the tellers begin their count Saturday will be disqualified. The eight trustees will be elected from a slate of 11 and the nominating committee from a slate of eight.

Mrs. Irl Fischer, president, will preside at the meeting which is open to the entire membership. Miss Dorothy Dann, chairman, will report for the nominating committee including Mrs. Carl Spangler and Miss Edna Eckert.

Annual reports will be submitted by Miss Bertha A. Gregory, executive secretary, and Mrs. Jessie Crane, secretary of Girl Reserves and recreation. A devotional service will precede the business.

GOAT GOES ON BLITZ

SAN FRANCISCO Cal—(UP)—The city has a secret weapon It is Homer the Goat Recently Homer executed a blitz by charging through the wire fence that surrounded him and "mowed down" six shipyard workers who were waiting at the corner for their car Next he charged Patrolman Larry O'Connell who succeeded in getting him by the horns and "de-blitzed" him

NEW SUBWAY TO BE COLORFUL

Soft Lights, Mode Features Help Draw Patrons In Chicago System.

CHICAGO (INS) A rainbow of colors blended in a symphony of soft lights rich marble walls and other appropriate station appointments will give Chicago's new subway the atmosphere calculated to win patronage

The novel decoration plan was described by Architect Alfred Shaw who reported

"The patron can only be intrigued into using these facilities as they may afford some visual sensual psychological convenience Make them happy and raise the volume has been the guiding influence in the commissioner's committee"

Lighting will be fluorescent color schemes will differ in every station Shaw said He added the system will afford "a convenience to the patron and a safety measure for the train motormen who come to a well-lighted station but have no glare in the direction of the oncoming train"

Marble will line walls in escalators and stairways Platform floors will be of a red composition Everything has been planned to avoid the so called "prison atmosphere" said Shaw

Lower turnstiles and fencing in the mezzanines will be another uncommon feature

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD -- Dawn of the great unsliced era, I am un-ppy to report, seems to have und Hollywood prepared. It oks as if all Hays' chillun got ead-knives.

The canvass is not complete, t first results of my galloping ll indicate that ead-knifed film milies far out-mber the ead-knifeless. Walter Huston, ra Vague, Ann rding, Olivia Havilland and ny others all ew definitely y were equip-d, and only chard Travis, pride of Paragould, Ark., con-sed knifelessness—he being a v bridegroom and not yet set for housekeeping.

Coons

liss De Havilland, who hadn't n reading the papers and n't know that bakery-sliced ad was a war casualty, was ghted to hear it. She said firm-that steps should have been en long ago because bread was ays sliced too thick and it was ut time the government oped in, so there.

* * *

NYWAY, Hollywood can still slice bread as thin as it uses, So I'm chagrined — be-se my theory, based on years observation, is that there is a ct relation between thin-ed bread and wallpaper-climb-at movie cocktail parties. ocktail parties are rare now-ys, but the hors d'oeuvre tray ith thin-sliced bread as its and foundation—is still with n when they happen. The tray ners by the hapless guest, whose 5 p. m. appetite is already whetted by a sip of martini, and it dares him in the name of Emily Post to take more than one of its minute adornments.

These are usually damp, wafer-thin, party-shaped dabs of bread buried under mounds of anonymous goo, the taste of which demands two quick cocktails to obliterate same. By this time the victim is ravenous, and starts slithering—he hopes inconspicuously—after the slithering tray in hopes of better luck.

* * *

IN THE old days he could settle on a fraction of deviled egg with some confidence, but nowadays he hunts in darkness. So he draws an anchovy tidbit, he thinks, but it is really a string of spiny, salted leather curled up coyly on a bed of glue atop a heart-shaped water of wet dough. He runs choking for another washer-downer, and so on, and on—and after a while he thinks he is Louis B. Mayer and starts handing out M-G-M contracts.

My notebook is full of such sad case-histories. Mr. X, for one, who got muscle-bound sprinting after the non-stop tray, fanatically determined to consume the equivalent of one man-sized sandwich. And Mr. A, who fell flat on his face after two hours—entirely, I was told, from frustrated hunger. And poor Mr. B, who developed arms like Atlas from ceaseless reaching after trays, and would have been a fine physical specimen except that his liver dissolved in the down-wash. All because of thin-sliced bread!

But Hollywood is well-knifed, and science must wait. And another bitter thought: No matter how thin they slice it, it's still, alas, not bologna.

SCOFFS AT SUIT

CANTON — (AP) — A $25,000 damage suit, filed by Mrs. Edith Heller against James Seccombe, brought from the former 16th district congressman the comment that "it's nearing election time and I can expect suits like these." Mrs. Heller charged Seccombe called her abusive names and later struck her in the face last New Year eve.

OTHER STATES FEEL LIQUOR DROUTH, TOO

West Virginia, Indiana Report Drying Up of Cheaper Whiskies in Survey.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—As Ohio's liquor drouth becomes more acute, imbibers may take solace from this: neighboring states also are undergoing a wet-to-moist transition.

Buckeye tipplers, unable to obtain favored brands of whiskey from state retail stores or at bars, have leveled criticism at the Ohio monopoly's administrative officials.

To this, Don Fisher, acting liquor director, replies that Ohio is obtaining an equitable share of available stocks from distillers but that this simply cannot keep pace with the soaring purchasing power of Ohio workers.

The critics assert that Ohio is not granted the consideration other states receive from distillers, whose facilities have been converted 100 per cent to the production of war alcohol.

A survey brought these reports from the respective states:

Charleston, W. Va. -- "Due largely to transportation difficulties, liquor stocks are very low and cheap brands are unobtainable. Wines, rum and Scotches still are plentiful.

"Monoply stores limit liquor purchases to one quart daily. Nine stores closed Feb. 1 because of uncertain prospects for future stock."

Louisville, Ky.—"No shortage of bourbon whiskey but wholesalers and distillers are voluntarily rationing to retailers. There is no rationing to consumers."

Indianapolis, Ind. — "Bernard Doyle, chairman of the Indiana alcoholic beverages commission, says the supply of domestic whiskies in this state is very limited, particularly in moderate priced varieties. Stocks of rum and Scotches also are limited. Doyle sees little chance of increasing stocks. A few taverns have closed."

Lansing, Mich. "B M. Davey, secretary of the Michigan liquor control commission, says the supply of domestic whiskies is 'fair.' A new price list March 1 will include items picked up from small distillers who never sold to the state before, but supplies are below normal on moderate priced items."

FACES QUIZ ON FOREIGN BASES

Berle To Be Asked If U. S. Will Lose Investments In Military Airfields.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON -Adolf A. Berle, jr., a high state department official credited with negotiating the agreements giving the United States the right to build military air bases on foreign soil, will be summoned soon before the house foreign affairs committee to tell whether this country will keep title to the lands after the war.

Berle, it was disclosed today, will be asked bluntly whether the United States is to lose its investments in the airfields by turning them over lock, stock and barrel to foreign nations or retain them to build up a system of worldwide airways to maintain "freedom of the air, everywhere."

The way for Berle's appearance before the committee was paved when Rep. Bloom (D.), N. Y., chairman of the committee, assured members delving into lend-lease operations that he would call any witnesses of the state department that they wanted to question.

Bloom gave the promise after Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who negotiated the master agreements with United Nations under lend-lease, said that he could not tell about the airport deals. He suggested that Berle could give the details.

"Berle's my man, then," Rep. Mundt (R.) of S. D. said.

Mundt declared that he thought members of congress were entitled to know details of the airfield agreements.

"Freedom of the air will be more important even than freedom of the seas after this war," Mundt maintained. "We have to find out who has title to these fields in foreign nations because the fields were built with millions of dollars of American money. I'd like to know whether in expending these billions we have made reservations for American commercial airlines after the war."

'IMPOSSIBLE TO TALK WITH DEAD' REPORTS MRS. HOUDINI

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD – Small, white-haired Mrs. Harry Houdini, who for 10 years spent the anniversary of her husband's death in a darkened room beside his candle-lighted picture, said today that communication between the living and dead is "impossible."

Mrs. Houdini, confined to a rest home with a heart ailment, said she wanted the world to know her convictions before she died. With her friends, Z" the newspaper boys," gathered at her bedside, the magician's widow said:

"Harry could escape from anything on earth. If he can't slip through a message to me from Heaven then the whole deal is off."

She recalled the pact she had made with Houdini before she died. They gave each other messages in sealed envelopes, she said, and the one who died first promised to try to send the message back.

Mrs. Houdini, who helped her husband into strait jackets, chained his handcuffs, locked trunks for him and sealed barrels, said her failure to receive a message had made her doubtful about life after death. But if there is a hereafter, she said, the dead cannot talk to the living.

"After trying fruitlessly once a year for 10 years to pull down a message from Harry, I'm convinced the dead can't communicate with the living," she said.

"I sat in a dark room with a candle burning in front of Harry's picture on every anniversary of his death for 10 years. Nothing ever happened."

Mrs. Houdini said ZI gave the spirits their chance to make their move, now I'll make mine."

She said seance that produce table-knocking, bell ringing, slate writing, and ghostly voices are "not only phoneys, they're fakes." Anyone who claims to receive a message from her after she dies, she said, will be "fibbing to say the least."

NEW SYSTEM

Blood Donor Registrars For 7 Communities Named.

Blood donor registrars in seven Richland county towns and villages were designated today by the county Red Cross blood donor committee to facilitate the registration of volunteers in the outlying areas.

The new registrars are also charged with explaining the blood donor program in their communities and outlining the rules that govern the service.

Their initial work will be in connection with the next visit of the Cleveland mobile blood donor unit, Feb. 18-19. Donations will be taken the first day from 1:45 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. and the second day from 10:45 a. m. until 2:45 p. m.

Mrs. C. C. Fish will serve as registrar in Shelby; Mrs. Harry Stewart, Lucas; Mrs. W. F. Lawrence, Lexington; Mrs. K. M. Willson, Bellville; Mrs. Alice Eckert, Pavonia; Mrs. Lee Henry, Olivesburg, and Mrs. Dewey Reynolds, Shiloh.

FOREMEN'S CLUB ARRANGES PARTY

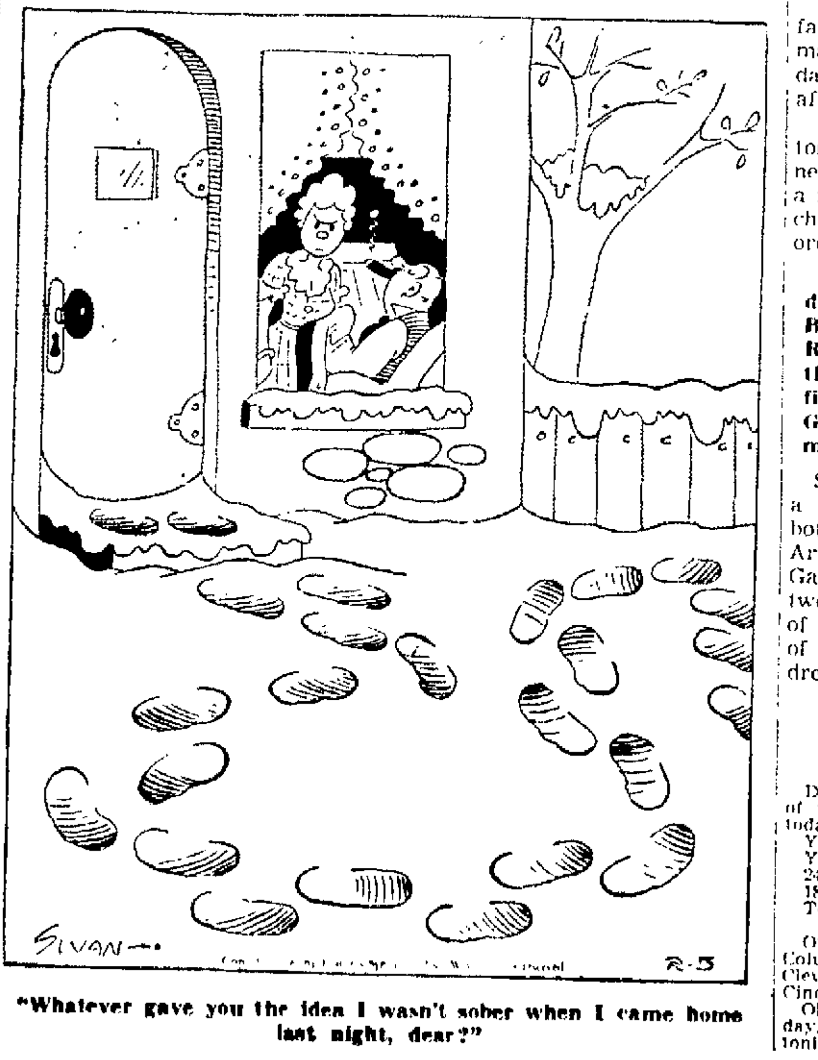
Women To Be Guests Monday; Dayton Speaker Booked.

The Mansfield-Shelby Foremen's club will stage its annual ladies' night meeting and party Monday night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel with Fay Lee Meadows of Dayton, O., minister and humorist, as the speaker.

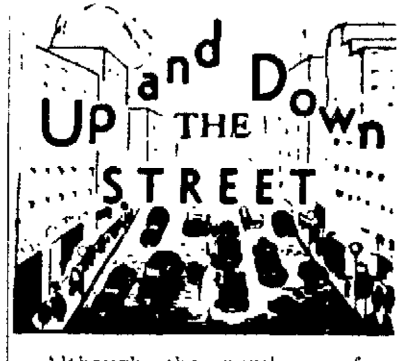
Meadows appeared before the club at the ladies' party last year and was so well received that he was invited to return.

The meeting will open with a dinner at 6:30 p. m. A dance will follow the talk and business meeting. Entertainment will be in charge of club representatives of Shelby firms.

Laff-a-Day



"Whatever gave you the idea I wasn't sober when I came home last night, dear?"



Up and Down THE STREET

Although the purchase of a permanent summer camp site for the Mansfield Girl Scouts will be deferred until after the war the girls are going ahead with plans for the project. Plans for the annual cookie sale in March are underway and all proceeds will be diverted to the camp fund. When the question came up as to whether a cookie sale should be sponsored this season due to all the war activities the attitude of the girls was expressed by one extremely young Scout who sagely remarked that "if we don't get a chance to use it at least our children and grandchildren will have a summer camp."

* * *

Police were stunned late yesterday not so much by the mystery surrounding the incident but the fact that the article lost or stolen was COFFEE. The berry beverage occupies an important place in a policeman's life and interest was whetted to a high pitch when Kenneth Bargahiser, manager of the local branch of the Commercial Freight company, 455 Park avenue east, reported a 60-pound carton lost or stolen from a truck in the downtown business district. Shortly after Lieutenant Bruce Friday dispatched all radio cars to a search and was planning to summon the reserves he received a message that the carton had been "mysteriously returned to the loading dock" of the motor freight concern with no casualties.

* * *

When a court order says "get going and stay gone- it means exactly that, in the opinion of Judge H. H. Schettler who ascended the municipal bench Monday. Two weeks ago Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, his predecessor, suspended a fine of $100 and costs imposed against a woman on a soliciting charge on condition she leave the city, permanently. Last night Plainclothesman Herbert Palmer observed the offender, "with a man in tow" and escorted her to city prison, on the theory she was violating federal vice regulations as well as the court order. This morning she was committed to county jail to serve 180 days in payment of the fine after Judge Schettler vacated the suspension order.

CLASSES START

Red Cross Nutrition Course Begins Next Week.

Three new Red Cross nutrition classes will begin a 20-hour training course next week while registration for a fourth class, starting Feb. 17, at Newman Street school, is now open at the Red Cross executive offices.

Mrs. W. B. Ford, county nutrition chairman, said two classes are slated to start Tuesday, Feb. 9, one at Brinkerhoff school at 2 p. m., in charge of Mrs. A. C. Tuttle and another at John Simpson Junior high school at 7 p. m., directed by Miss Grace Essex.

The third class will be held Friday, Feb. 12, at 1:30 p. m. at Bowman Street school, in charge of Mrs. Pauline Treisch, county canteen chairman. All classes will be held weekly.

JAMES A. MAJOR DIES AT SHELBY

Had Lived Near There For 60 Years; Funeral Monday.

SHELBY- James A. Major, 74, farmer in the Shelby area for many years, died at 9 a. m. Friday in Shelby Memorial hospital after a brief illness.

Mr. Major was born at Lexington July 31, 1868, but had lived near Shelby for 60 years. He was a member of the Shelby Lutheran church, K. of P. lodge, and Junior order.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. at the Barkdull Funeral home with Rev. D. Bruce Young, pastor of the First Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery at Plymouth.

Surviving are one son, Roscoe; a daughter, Mrs. Court Morse, both of Shelby; three brothers, Arthur of Akron, Howard of Galion, and Ernest of Plymouth, two sisters, Mrs. Scott Reynolds of Crestline and Miss Ethel Major of Plymouth, and four grandchildren.

ACTOR TENSE WHILE STATE SUMS CHARGES

Deputy District Attorney Denounces Stunt Man, Police Officers.

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES—The fate of Errol Flynn, dashing film star charged with attacking two teen-age girls, will be placed in the hands of a jury of nine women and three men today.

At the end of the fourth week the case has been before him, Superior Judge Leslie E. Still announced that the jury's considerations of the claims of Peggy Larue Satterlee and Betty Hansen that Flynn ravished them was but a few hours away.

Deputy District Attorney John Hopkins was near the end of the state's final argument as court convened. When he concluded, Judge Still was to charge the talismen.

The tanned face of the tall Irish-blooded actor betrayed tenseness for the first time as Hopkins again reviewed the lengthy testimony.

Hopkins, going before the jury after Chief Defense Counsel Jerry Geisler appealed to the jurors to consider Flynn "not as an actor but as any one of us," denounced several persons connected with the case, including the police officers.

Buster Wiles, stunt man and friend of Flynn, he termed the actor's "bird dog," and demanded again to know why Wiles had not testified although he was present on Flynn's yacht in 1941 when Miss Satterlee said she was attacked twice, and at the film colony party where Miss Hansen claimed Flynn was intimate with her.

He termed Policewoman Mary Ross a "stubborn mule" in view of her defense testimony indicating that Miss Hansen, 17, changed her story between her arrest and her first court appearance.

Hopkins dubbed Armand Knapp, studio messenger who took Miss Hansen to Fred McEvoy's Bel-Air home last Sept. 27 without the host's invitation, a "rat."

And he "condemned" Detective Lieut. R. W. Bowling, his own witness, for not taking notes of conversations the officer held with Flynn both at the actor's skyline home in the Santa Monica mountains and at juvenile hall shortly afterwards.

Players to Give Lone Performance Of '43 March 30

Dormant so far this season because of the way their ranks have been depleted by men entering military service the Mansfield Community Players will present the only production of their 17th season, Tuesday night, March 30, when they stage the spine-tingling comedy, "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Originally scheduled as one of the three plays for the 1941-42 season, the production was postponed when it was learned that the play was not as yet ready for release to non-professional groups. The New York cast headed by Boris Karloff is now on tour and the play has been released for amateur performances.

Mrs. E. K. Bacon, director of the Players for 11 seasons, will direct the comedy. No public try-outs will be held, she said, as the parts will be assigned to people who have had experience in previous productions. Casting of the 14 parts will begin in the near future.

Action to produce the play, written by Joseph Kesselring was taken by the board of governors of the organization at a meeting held at the home of the president, Ruhland D. Isaly, 685 Woodhill road. Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler was appointed business manager of the organization to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Harvey Bailey who is working in Cleveland.

CHURCH GROUPS HAVE QUARTERLY MEETING

Pilgrim Guild and Women's Association of First Congregational Church Attend Luncheon and Program Thursday Afternoon.

MRS. JOHN W. GRAHAM chose as her theme "If You Want to Keep It, Give It," when she spoke to approximately fifty members of the Pilgrim guild and the Women's association of the First Congregational church, when they met for a one o'clock luncheon at their regular quarterly meeting.

In her talk Mrs. Graham told members of the associations that the Japanese control 90 per cent of the crude rubber production of the world, and it is imperative that we do all we can to save what rubber we do have, to help win the war Mrs Graham also spoke about the books that the association will present to boys in the armed forces

Mrs Fred Schuster presented Mrs. L. E. Beck, of Galion, who gave the poem, "The White Cliffs," which tells the story of an American girl who went to England and married into an English family, and the outcome of the marriage which took place during the first World war

Devotions at the meeting conducted by Mrs Charles Fox, were led by Mrs Peter Young Mrs. Young read the hymn, "I Would Be True" and gave a reading entitled "The Woman and Her Church" before closing with prayer

Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. Charles Fox, chairman Mrs E H Edwards, Mrs James Boyd, Mrs. Dwight Smith Mrs D. J Morgan, Mrs William Hallum, Mrs George Moore, Mrs. H Seneff, Mrs Lee Twitchell, Mrs C M Jelliff and Mrs C. D. Deisler The next meeting, on May 2 will be held at the parish house

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Three pairs of eyes turned on me with such astonishment at my question that I found myself flushing. Georges, his eyes sparkling with excitement was the first to speak

"That's it, of course" he said emphatically

"Yes, I think that's the answer," my father said "For you see, Mr Warner has ample funds in this country Are they in more than one bank?" as he turned to Georges

"No. All my reserve funds are in one bank" He named it and its location, not far from the Lansfield

"When did you last go to the bank?" my father asked

"When I was in this country before" was the astounding reply Then he explained

"I brought over a large sum this time in travelers' checks" he said, "and deposited them in a safe deposit box in another bank under my incognito as an old man There are not many left and they can stay there indefinitely"

"Do they know your real identity at that bank?" my father asked.

"Two men do" Georges said "I opened the account under the name I use in business transactions, Georges Minot Those two men will identify me"

"Unless they identify your double first" my father said and Halloran gave his knee a resounding clap

"I get it now" he said "That's what that devil is planning—to impersonate you at the bank He will look as much like you now as you do yourself

Task Nearly Finished.

"Have you finished your work with him?" my father asked in quick alarm

"No, I'm to fix him up finally tomorrow"

"Then we have time to stop proceedings," my father said, and Georges gave an exclamation of dismay.

"I am the world's champion idiot!" he exclaimed. "I couldn't go to my old bank while protected by that disguise, because they wouldn't know me, and now I won't dare to go because the few people who know I am alive might see me."

"You won't have to go," my father said calmly, while Georges stared at him in bewilderment "Tell me first, have you communicated with the bank in any way since your return?"

"Yes, I wrote them and telephoned my friends there They know I may come in at any time."

"So much to the good," my father commented "Now another thing, what about your signature? The one they will honor at the bank is Georges Minot?"

Halloran's Discovery.

"Yes, that is right," Georges said, and his eyes turned to Halloran, who just then quickly smothered an exclamation.

"What is it Mr Halloran?" my father asked

"It's something I stumbled on by accident," Halloran replied. "The man I'm working for has a desk which he keeps closed when not sitting at it But one day when I was there just after he left to get something from another room the lid of the desk fell down and a breeze blew a big sheet of paper across the room to me What seemed to be the end of a letter was pinned to the top of that sheet, and signed to the letter was that name, Georges Minot"

I heard Georges' sharp intake of breath

"Would you recognize that signature if you saw it again?" he asked

"The Authority on Authorities"

CHANCES ARE 3 TO 1

WHEN ALL that you have to do in order to make your contract is to succeed with either of two finesses the chances are not 2 to 1 in your favor They are 3 to 1 The honors against which you finesse may be located in four different ways First, they may both be at your left Second both may be at your right Third the first of them may be at the left and the second at the right. Fourth, the first may be at the right and the second at the left With three of those situations your contract gets made

Actually the odds were much more than 3 to 1 that South would make this contract It was not necessary to find the K of either hearts or clubs in the East. Even if West had them both, there still would be some chance of making the contract.

West might consider it dangerous to lead either trumps or the dummy's spades for fear of setting up spades for a discard in the other suits and consequently might possibly lead away from one of the kings. There was a chance even that a lead-throwing end-play might be built against him In addition, there was the chance that the spade suit might be evenly divided between East and West, in which event a single ruff of the suit would set up the rest of it for discards of both of South's side queens, producing a grand slam

Counting everything that could occur the chances of making the small slam on this hand were well in excess of the 3 to 1 odds based purely on the finesses. It is easy to see that South should make his contract by winning the heart finesse, as the cards actually lie

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 6.

WHILE THERE may be a lifting of adverse and depressing situations in domestic, affectional or social relations, with some light or comfort, incident to change travel or separation, yet a state of sorrow, disappointment, repression and restraint may prevail.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly active year, with much stirring, although incident to a rearrangement of the personal affairs. Affectional or home ties may be jeopardized, or the physical health may be at the root of disturbance or inertia.

A child born on this day may have initiative and constructive ability but its personal or physical relations may have a depressing or restraining effect on its career.

Gray Shoots for New Ohio Scoring Record

Bowling Green Star Needs 14 Points Tonight

(By United Press)

A NEW Ohio college scoring record may be set tonight when slender Wyndol Gray, ace freshman forward of Bowling Green university, leads the Falcons against Akron university in his hometown Rubber City.

Gray needs only 14 points against Akron to tie a mark set last year by Bob Gerber, who was named the best American college cager of 1941-42.

* * *

In 18 games Gray has run up 453 points, an average of more than 25 points per game, and if he keeps it up tonight the old record should go by the boards. Both Gray and Gerber are Akron boys and both were coached by Harold Anderson, present Falcon mentor. Anderson piloted the Toledo university team last year.

* * *

Wooster college overwhelmed Wittenberg 64 to 43 last night for their fourth Ohio conference victory. However, Earl Fisher, Wittenberg forward, led the scoring parade with 20 points. Harry Eicher, Scot center, led Wooster with 19 points. It was Wittenberg's second conference defeat.

Kent State bounded back in another conference game with a 54 to 38 victory over Ashland. It was Kent's fourth conference victory against an equal number of defeats. It was Ashland's sixth loss.

Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops defeated their traditional rivals, Denison, 56 to 50. It was Wesleyan's fifth victory of the season. Denison, in losing their sixth game, had the game's high scorer in Freshman Bob McGinnis of Marion who tallied 25 points.

* * *

Cincinnati university scored its seventh victory of the season with a lopsided 67 to 33 victory over out-of-state Hanover.

* * *

Findlay defeated the Toledo Navy Cadets, 51 to 45, in a game which required four overtimes. It was Findlay's third victory of the season against 11 defeats. It was Toledo Navy's ninth defeat.

Bill Provides Game Areas

Private and Commercial Preserves Considered.

COLUMBUS—(AP)— The answer to a game hunter's dream is contained in legislation proposed in the Ohio house of representatives.

* * *

It would authorize the creation of private or commercial game preserves, up to 3,000 acres in size, on which sportsmen could bag game in excess of existing legal limits and not be restricted by the present open seasons.

* * *

The legislation, offered by Rep. Guy C. Hiner, a Canton salesman, is labeled as a measure to promote the propagation of pheasants.

However, the last paragraph provides that the fish and game laws "shall not apply to said licensed areas or to pheasant hunting on said areas, in so far as said sections or parts thereof are inconsistent with the provisions of this section."

The paragraph thus raises the question of whether persons hunting on the proposed private preserves could shoot quail and deer, fish when and how they pleased and engage in any other activities now prohibited by the fish and game laws.

The bill's language further indicates that both cock and hen pheasants could be shot.

The pheasant propagation and shooting would be regulated by the state conservation council.

* * *

Licenses to set up the game areas would be issued by the conservation commissioner. They would cost $15 a year for the first 200 acres and two cents to each additional acre.

* * *

Persons setting up game areas on a commercial basis could charge a fee to hunters.

The owner of the property would have to stock it with game, but the conservation council would regulate the amount and the operator would be required to report on the amount of game shot.

Mehl Service Hits Streak

Score Shutout and Pace B-League In Scoring.

Kent Rummels had to turn in a shutout win to maintain their two-game lead in the Commercial "B" bowling league at Colony alleys last night over the hot-shooting Mehl Service station who also scored a shutout, and took all team honors with a 2760 total and 990 game.

J. Heiser of the Mehl quintet turned in high individual total of 629, and tied with Leo Yuncker for high game at 233. Yuncker had a 619 total.

Physical Ed Institute Set

Demonstration Given By Coaches and Pupils.

High school coaches and physical education instructors of Richland, Crawford, Huron, Ashland, Wayne and Holmes counties will attend a physical fitness institute at Ashland high school tomorrow for a demonstration of the physical education program being urged by the government.

Mansfield high school boys under the direction of Coach Paul Snyder will give a demonstration of tumbling at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Coach Jimmy Lymper and Galion high school boys will show indoor and outdoor obstacle courses in the afternoon, while Coach Al Fendrick of Madison high school will have charge of a general session on community recreation at 11:30 a. m.

Ashland high school boys and girls and Ashland college men will also take part in the demonstrations.

At a luncheon session, Paul R. Landis, supervisor of physical and health education of the state department of education will speak on "A Total View," while an officer from the naval cadet school at Wooster college will speak on "The Navy Program."

Sidney Boyd and Marion Whallon of Ashland high school are district co chairmen for the physical education setup, and Coach George Donges of Ashland college is Ashland chairman.

Right Here's Payoff Pocket

(AP Features)

Here is the payoff pocket. The bowler strives to deliver the ball against the 1 and 3 pins in the direction of the 5 pin (in the center of the triangle). Left-handed bowlers attempt to hit the 1-2 pocket. After hitting the 1-3 pocket the bowler hopes to "keep the pins on the alley," with "fallen wood" knocking down pins still standing. A working ball, that is, one that spins as it hits the 1-3 pocket, tends to scatter the pins. However, a woman should use a straight ball (unless she throws a natural hook) until she learns to control the ball, through coordinated footwork, proper delivery and follow through.

Bay Meadows Race Meet Cancelled

SAN FRANCISCO — (U.P.)—General Manager William P. Kyne of the Bay Meadows race track today announced cancellation of a 50-day meet which was to have started Feb. 20.

* * *

The meet was abandoned as result of a request by Rubber Administrator William Jeffers that racing not be held because it would cause "the wearing out of a great deal of rubber."

* * *

Kyne said that the request indicated disapproval of horse racing at all tracks.

The meet previously was sanctioned by army officials and 1,000 horses already had arrived at the track.

"This apparently means the end of horse racing here for the duration," Kyne said. "We want to go along with the war effort the way deemed best."

Jack Favored In Zivic Bout

Fritzie Has 10-Pound Weight Advantage.

NEW YORK—(AP)—It looks like the old numbers game when Fritzie Zivic collides with Beau Jack tonight, what with the merry tunes the customers are playing on Mike Jacob's cash registers and the fancy odds the bewildered betting boys are offering against Fritz.

* * *

On the one hand Uncle Michael is looking for a crowd of more than 15,000 of the cash contributors an da bundle of more than $50,000 by the time the two thumpers go to work at 10 p. m. in Madison Square Garden's cauliflower ear foundry.

* * *

On the other hand you have a picture of the slightly silly pricemakers, somewhat shell-shocked after going weeks without a winner, installing the Beau a 5 to 12 favorite in the morning line, for no apparent reason. It could be, of course, they've received some "inside dope" that the Beau is going to climb into the battle pit with a couple of ball bats. Otherwise, however, the odds appear out-of-line, especially when coming from such big-hearted boys as the bookmakers, who have been known to give away, absolutely free, such things as air (hot) and the right time.

* * *

Fritzie is betting on himself this time. What's more, he'll have a ten-pound pull in the weights—something like 145 to 135.

* * *

As a result and in spite of the fact Jack is on a year-long winning streak, which has carried him to recognition as world light-weight champion in New York, this corner rides with Fritzie this time 'round the merry-go-round.

Big Ten Race Now Half Over

Illinois and Indiana Play Second Division Clubs.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — One of the tightest Big Ten basketball races in history hits the half-way mark tomorrow night when four conference contests are scheduled.

Indiana and Illinois, the undefeated leaders, meet second division outfits in the headline games. The Hoosiers face Michigan at Bloomington, while Illinois goes to Columbus, O., to meet Ohio State. In other contests Purdue opposes Northwestern at Chicago, Minnesota entertains Chicago at Minneapolis and in a non-league game Iowa opposes Knox at Iowa City.

* * *

Indiana, whose winning margin has averaged 20 points per game in six straight conference conquests, rates as the top-heavy favorite over a Michigan team that has triumphed only once in four starts.

* * *

The Hoosiers have too much team balance, size, speed and cleverness to be troubled seriously by Michigan. Coach Branch McCracken's quintet ranks second in the conference on offensive with a 58.1 points-per-game average. Michigan has a scanty mark of 34.5 points-per-game.

Ohio State gave Illinois some anxious moments in their meeting at Columbus a year ago before falling by a nine-point margin, 58 to 49. The Bucks may be troublesome again, but there appears little likelihood of an upset.

* * *

With the veteran Ken Menke back in the starting lineup, Illinois now is at full strength and has a quintet in which every player is a dangerous scorer. It is a combination with too much all-around class for Ohio State.

* * *

Purdue is conceded a slight edge over Northwestern. The Boilermakers long have been a jinx team for Northwestern, winning 29 of 35 contests between the outfits.

Minnesota was the last Big Ten team to lose to Chicago and the Gophers still are trying to live down the defeat.

League Has Close Game

Two Points Decide Each Friendly House Tilt.

Scoring 21 points in the third period, Boston Grocery edged Sferro Lunch 38-36 in a Senior league basketball game at Friendly House last night.

They were tied at the quarter 5-5, but Sferros took a 15-9 lead at the half. Then came the Boston rally to make it 30-29 in favor of the Grocers in the third period.

McIntire of the losers took top scoring honors with 13 points while J. Carbetta got 11 for Boston.

The other league games also was decided by two points as Rex Billiards edged Hunt's News 32-30 on a 12-3 last period.

Hunts were out in front 11-8 at the qaurter, 21-14 at the half, and 27-20 at the third period. Wentz got 10 points for the Billiards and G. Bosko 10 for Hunts.

Freshman Play Okayed by Brown

COLUMBUS—(AP)— Coach Paul Brown placed his stamp of approval today on use of freshman varsity football players in the Western conference with the observation that his hopes for an Ohio State team this fall rested largely on 16 and 17-year-old high school graduates.

The Buckeye mentor said the armed forces probably would take all but seven of his 39 veteran gridders and most of last year's yearlings.

"Probably the Big Ten will allow its freshmen to play," Brown said, "but only after they have completed one quarter of work or some such equivalent of time.

"We'll have a football team at Ohio State next fall," Brown declared. "It may be a young, green team, but we'll compete and fight it out in the same old way."

Hergatts Add To Loop Lead

Florence Handwark Rolls High Total.

Hergatt Lettering boosted its lead in the women's Commercial "A" bowling league to two full games over Safety Cabs last night at Colony alleys by scoring a 2-1 win while the Cabs were dropping a 1-2 decision.

Florence Handwark set the scoring pace with a 574 total including a 206 game, while Sue Humphrey had high game of 214, and Margaret Baker a 211 game.

Safety Cabs took team honors with a 2437 total and 883 game.

JOINS WAVES

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—(INS)—Helen Jacobs, queen of the clay courts, trim in her blue uniform, today had laid aside her racket to learn the ways of the navy, as a WAVE.

Firing Starts As 36 Teams Take To Colony Lanes

MANSFIELD tomorrow night becomes the bowling capital of Ohio, a position it will occupy for the next 10 weeks, or thereabout. Firing starts in the Ohio Moose Bowling tournament at Colony alleys tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. and will continue for four week-ends. Then follows the Inter-City tournament for four to six week-ends of action.

Twelve Mansfield teams will take up the first shift Saturday night, including Editors, Managers, Secretaries, Legionnaires, Janitors, Fellowship, Long Bar, 36 Bar No. 2, Yingling's Tavern, Office Cafe, and Officers No. 341.

* * *

Ten more Mansfield teams are on the 8:30 shift. They are: Trustees, Mansfield Athletic Supply, Appian Tire Service, Treasurers, Pilgrims, Prelates, Governors, Yuncker Sports, Coolridge Golf, and Buckeye Beers.

* * *

Diebel's Grill and Spung Insurance from Columbus make up the rest of the 8:30 card.

Rolling at 9 o'clock will be six teams from Delaware, the Lloyd Radio, Certain Teed Roofs, Wilson C. J., White Rose Laundry, Strand Theater, and Tilton Added Vans; two from Ashtabula, the Indians and Yankees; two from Middletown, the No. 4 and 8 teams; and one from Mt. Vernon and one from Galion.

These 36 teams will be back on Sunday for singles and doubles events, starting at 9 a. m. and running through a 5:30 p. m. shift.

* * *

And among those in action Sunday will be the tournament's defending doubles champions, R. Hooper and S. Burchard of Delaware. Incidentally, Mansfield keglers will tell you that Delaware bowlers can usually be found well up in the money in handicap tournaments, that they usually hit well over their averages when they get away from their home alleys.

* * *

The Ashtabula contingent also has some good bowlers, headed by C. Carper, secretary of the Ashtabula lodge and former mayor of that city.

There will be one shift of eight teams rolling in the five-man event at 3:30 Sunday, including Lodge No. 1248 of Norwalk, Idle Hour Billiards of Mansfield, City Package Delivery of Springfield, Lodge No. 995 of Lancaster, and Granview Cleaners, Curtiss Plumbers, Leitwein Shoes, and Rohe Restaurant of Columbus.

ROBINSON BATTLES LA MOTTA TONIGHT

DETROIT —(U.P.)— Ray (Sugar) Robinson, Harlem's unbeaten welterweight, battles rugged Jake La Motta, a fellow New Yorker in a 10-round bout expected to attract a sellout crowd of 16,000 to Olympia stadium tonight.

A $50,000 gate was expected for this rematch, in which Robinson seeks his second triumph over La Motta.

BARONS SWAMPED BY HERSHEY ICE TEAM

(By Associated Press)

The second-place Buffalo Bisons didn't gain any ground on the Hershey Bears, American hockey league leaders, but Gordie Bell, their sensational young netminder, had another big evening.

Bell turned in his eighth shutout of the season as he blanked the Providence Reds, 2-0, last night, while the Bears defeated the Cleveland Barons, 9-3.

STOCK MARKET TAKES NIBBLE AT RECOVERY

Department Store Sales For Nation Stay on Even Keel, Board Says.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market nibbled at recovery in today's early dealings.

Up fractions at a moderately active opening were Du Pont, U. S. Steel, Woolworth, Hiram Walker, Radio Corp., Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft and American Telephone. A shade lower were Chrysler and Union Carbide.

Merchandising stocks were confronted with the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing retail dollar volume throughout the nation in the current week was 4 to 9 per cent below that of the like period a year ago.

The federal reserve board, on the other hand, placed department store sales on a country-wide basis for the week ended Jan. 30 at about the same figure as in the corresponding week last year.

EXPECT TIME CHANGE FEB. 14

Legislators Wait Senate's Action on House-Approved Emergency Measure.

posed it; and there have been rumblings of opposition in Youngstown and Akron.

The issue in the senate appeared to depend upon Republican Senators John A. Corlett, Cuyahoga and James P. Griffith, Mahoning, who voted against the emergency clause but for the time change, and Lawrence A. Kane, Hamilton, who was absent during the vote Tuesday.

If two of them vote for the emergency, and no other votes are lost over the week-end, Ohio may have slow time for most of its clocks by the following Sunday.

Otherwise, the matter doubtless will be referred to a conference committee of both houses. But a conference committee recommendation of the emergency clause still would have to be approved by two-thirds of both houses, a fact overlooked earlier this week by time-changers who thought a conference committee report on the issue could be passed by simple majority.

Rep. George B. Marshall, Franklin, was the sole Republican to oppose the time measure yesterday as the house aired views for two and one-half hours with the most colorful oratory of the session. Four Democrats joined him in opposition to the bill.

The house rejected amendments by Rep. John L. Catlett, R., Richland, to postpone effect of the measure until the first Sunday in March, and by John F. Cantwell, D., Mahoning, to put off the time change until Sept. 1.

Marshall introduced a resolution, after the time change was passed, which would instruct Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert to petition the interstate commerce commission for a change of time zone to put Ohio in the central zone.

"If the ICC grants such a request it would end the existence of two kinds of time in Ohio resulting from the present bill," Marshall said.

He predicted the assembly would pass the resolution but said he thought the ICC would have been more inclined to grant the request if the legislature had postponed a change of state time pending ICC action.

House vote on the time change was not strictly along party lines. Six Republicans, including Marshall, Chester K. Gillespie of Cuyahoga, Robert L. Quinn, Jefferson, and C. B. McRae, James V. Sawyer and Abner D. Zook of Summit voted against the change.

Democrats George D. Barrick, Coshocton, H. H. Hannah, Brown, Roy E. Harmony, Shelby and George McKee, Noble, voted for the time change.

Reps. Robert L. Moulton, D., Crawford, C. William O'Neill, Washington and Speaker William M. McCulloch (who votes only in case of a tie) did not vote.

With these exceptions Republicans voted for the change and Democrats against it.

President Requests Four Billions For Navy Contracts.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for an additional $4,000,000,000 cash and $210,000,000 contract authorizations for the navy.

The budget bureau said the funds were needed to "provide for additional requirements for the prosecution of the war," and "to provide for contingencies which have arisen since the transmission of the budget for the fiscal year 1943."

Judge's Order to Rid Jail of Gambling Equipment, Alcohol

Tuberculosis sanitarium with the remainder to be delivered to General hospital.

Legs, tops, and wooden bands around the tops of two dice tables and a roulette table, because of the valuable lumber they contain, were ordered to be turned over by the sheriff to the manual training department of Mansfield high school, with directions that if they cannot be used by them, they must be destroyed.

Four chairs seized were declared by the judge not to be gambling devices, in themselves, and hence ordered restored to the owner if ownership can be ascertained.

Money, if any, in nine slot machines ordered destroyed, and proceeds from the sale of the junked machines, and locks on the machines were directed to the county treasury by the judge's order. Other items ordered destroyed were a roulette wheel, 15 boxes of poker chips and covers of a black jack table and two dice tables.

The sheriff was instructed to request detailed receipts on all deliveries.

Smashed Window — Frank Hupp, rural Mansfield resident, will be arraigned in municipal court on a disorderly conduct charge following his arrest Thursday night for causing a disturbance in an East Fourth street cafe. After abusing a fellow customer, kicking the bartender and being otherwise disturbing Hupp smashed a front window of the emporium, according to a report by Captain Paul Whipp and Patrolman Richard Hecht who subdued the man.

HE'S LOWEST PAID SOLDIER

Private Will Get Just Five Cents a Day for Five Months.

NEWARK, N. J.—(INS)—For the next five months, Private James Aspinall will be the lowest-paid soldier in the U. S. army.

Because he failed to authorize the $22 monthly dependency allowance to his estranged but not legally separated wife, Mae, Vice Chancellor John O. Bigelow ruled that he must make good $132 in arrears in addition to making the current allotment.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Funeral services for Mrs. Viola DeHoney, rear 225 North Adams street, who died in General hospital Thursday, will be completed following the arrival of a son from Louisville, Ky. The body is at the Jones Memorial.

JAPS SAILING ON SOLOMONS, NAVY REPORTS

40 Enemy Ships Reported In Harbor Near Guadalcanal; Fights Recurring.

The navy said details of clashes at sea would not be disclosed "as long as such information might jeopardize the safety of our forces."

While authoritative comment remained almost negligible, the rising tempo of Allied aerial blows touched off speculation that a United Nations offensive might be imminent against Japanese strongholds in the central and northern Solomons.

For days past, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters has reported incessant and increasingly violent Allied air attacks on enemy bases stretching across hundreds of miles of the South seas archipelago and adjoining islands.

These could serve either as "softening up" assaults paving the way for an Allied sea-borne offensive or as defensive smashes to cripple the sources of enemy supply.

In today's communique, MacArthur reported United Nations airmen unloaded bombs for three solid hours on the Japanese airdrome at Buin, 300 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, and spread destruction from one end of New Britain island to the other.

Japan's main feeder base for both the New Guinea and Solomon campaigns is located at Rabaul, New Britain.

In ground fighting, Allied troops continued to press Japanese forces southwest of Salamaua, killing 88 of the enemy in attacks near Wau.

Other far Pacific developments:

BURMA FRONT — Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's British Imperials, driving back into Burma from India, were reported locked in fierce battle with Japanese forces on the Mayu peninsula along the Bay of Bengal.

Wavell's troops were fighting against strongly-entrenched Japanese along the beaches and coastal swamps, and have penetrated to within about 25 miles of the big enemy bases at Akyab, at the nearest point.

In the skies, American-made Liberator bombers of the RAF rained 1,000-pound explosives on Rangoon, and other RAF planes attacked Japanese positions at Rathedaung and bombed the enemy airdrome at Magwe.

Tojo Denies He's Dictator of Japan

(By Associated Press)

Premier General Hideki Tojo took occasion today to deny that he is Japan's dictator, declaring that he is merely "the moon receiving light from the sun"—the emperor — according to a Tokyo dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

He added, however, that in wartime "dictatorial measures" must be taken to increase war production and win the war.

The broadcast said Tojo spoke in reply to a question in parliament. The question was not stated, but the reply indicated that Tojo was defending himself against charges of trying to draw too much power into his own hands. Two bills which would give him broad control over the war production program, even to the extent of shoving other members of the cabinet aside if necessary, are before parliament.

SAYS POLICEMEN GUARDED BOOKIE

Youngstown Man Tells of Daily Escort To Bank.

YOUNGSTOWN — (INS) — Admission had been made today in common pleas court by Leo (Dutch) Manley that he was a race horse bookmaker and that a Youngstown policeman was employed to escort him daily from the bookie parlor to a near-by bank.

Manley was the state's opening witness in the trial of John Keenan, 32, charged with robbing Manley of $1,300 last September.

Manley testified that the city policeman was hired to walk to the bank with him "after the races were over" to help protect the $1,300 to $2,500 that he deposited daily.

PUMPS STOPPED

Water Shortage Threatens as Ohio Workers Start Sit-down.

EAST LIVERPOOL — (AP) — The pumps that maintain this Ohio river city's water supply were idle today as four operating employes started a sit-down to enforce demands for pay raises.

The foreman and three other men employed at the waterworks pumping station reported on the job at 7 a. m. but failed to turn on the pumps, leaving the city with a dwindling supply that will last about 48 hours, city officials declared. Council last night refused immediate action on the workers' salary demands.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Foot-sore soldiers to whom marching orders are synonymous with painful corns and bunions can now raise their spirits.

A bill has been placed before the senate to provide a chiropody corps in the United States Army to keep soldiers' feet in good condition.

NAVY REVEALS 67 CASUALTIES

Only One Ohioan on List That Swells Total to 22,739.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The navy announced today 67 casualties in navy forces, including 7 dead, 13 wounded and 47 missing.

This brings to 22,739 the total of navy, marine corps and coast guard casualties reported to next to kin since December 7, 1941. The grand total includes 6,461 dead, 4,020 wounded and 12,258 missing.

FRENCH HAND OVER FULL AID

Give Allies Full Military, Naval and Air Resources of West Africa.

"Our air fields," Boisson said, "already are being used by the United Nations, especially American forces.

"All air fields in French West Africa now are available for American use and one large new field has just been completed with United States aid. Transatlantic planes already have landed there.

"All harbors likewise are now being used and French naval units are co-operating with Allied Atlantic patrols."

Boisson, dressed in a gray tweed suit and wearing gray spats, received the press at a council table in his hill-top headquarters villa. Liberally interspersing his remarks with gestures of his hands, Boisson flatly denied that the Germans had ever been in Dakar or were permitted the use of its facilities.

"The United States government," he said, "knew all the time that no Germans were permitted in Dakar and that there never was use of Dakar's facilities by the Germans.

"We kept Washington fully informed."

Some British fleet units already have used the harbor facilities of Dakar, Boisson said, and all political prisoners have been released. Seven French De Gaullist aviators who were captured at the time of a Dakar raid were sent to France where they were tried by a military tribunal and released.

There were no other prisoners in this action, he insisted.

Boisson estimated the present fighting strength of the Senegalese army in West Africa at a full 100,000 men, completely mobilized.

"These forces," he said, "can be increased to 300,000 from partially trained reserves. Our difficulty at present is the lack of trained French European officers and non-commissioned officers to lead them, as well as a lack of equipment.

"This army is entirely at the disposal of the Allies under Gen. Giraud for the defeat of Germany."

Asked whether De Gaullist officers and non-commissioned officers would be acceptable, Boisson shrugged his shoulders.

"That is a matter for Gen. Giraud to decide—not for me," he said.

Boisson emphasized he is not interested in political matters. The common aim of all Frenchmen should be unity in prosecution of the war against Germany, he said.

The governor-general expressed appreciation for American action in sending milk for the children of Dakar. Many other commodities, such as food and clothing, are needed, he said, "but the requirements of war must come first."

NAMED TRUSTEE IN DIVORCE SUIT

W. B. Kuhn, cashier of the Citizens Bank in Shelby, was named yesterday by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston as trustee in charge of funds involved in the divorce and property settlement action of Iva Marie Fish against John Fish, sales manager of the Shelby Metal Products company.

Appointment of Kuhn was made on the plaintiff's motion for a receiver, temporary alimony during pendency of suit, and a restraining order to prevent defendant from molesting either plaintiff or children of the couple. Kuhn will receive the salary and all money coming to the defendant from any source, according to terms of the order. He will be required to pay the plaintiff $300 monthly alimony and the tuition of a daughter to Stephens college as well as "necessary" amounts to the defendant, the order stated, with the remainder to be held until final disposition of the case is made.

MEN LAID OFF

'Shortage of Steel' Blamed for Idleness In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — A third shift of approximately 100 men at the Cleveland yards of the American Ship Building company was suspended today, officials said, because of a "shortage of steel."

Company Superintendent James Thompson said at least half of the men would be placed on the other two shifts. The remainder were expected to be unemployed for two weeks.

Galion 'Good Fighters' Look With Pride at Army-Navy 'E'

(Continued From Page 1) tive in the person of Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, who paid tribute to the plant officers and employes, declaring "the excellence of your performance has exceeded the ordinary requirements of duty and in a way that has brought honor to Ohio."

"As Ohio is proud of you today, all of us are proud of what Ohio is doing on the production front to win the war," Herbert said. "Due to the requirements of military secrecy, exact figures are not available which would show Ohio's place among other states, but we can say, however, that Ohio stands first in the number of plants producing war material."

Herbert told the Perfection employes that "you here today have given another fine example of faithful and loyal service to our country in time of war. You have shown and proven that free American labor can out-produce the slave labor of the Axis powers."

Just prior to the unfolding of the Army-Navy "E" banner, by the Galion Legion color guard, Lieut. Col. Witte paid tribute to "you fighters on the production front." He declared that "we have had to spend a long time here in America getting ready to fight, but now the period of preparation is over and we're getting down to the real business of winning the war."

Admonishing his listeners repeatedly that "we must not begin to think that this war is nearly over," Col. Witte told them "we ought to keep in mind the big job that lies ahead of us —ALL of us.

"First we've got to keep sending a steady stream of supplies of all kinds to the million men who are already overseas. The goal for the army is now set at seven and a half million men, and we are nowhere near that figure yet. It's our job at home to not only supply those already fighting but those who will be in the fighting ranks soon."

"This war isn't going to be won by just one battle, whether it's in Africa or in your own plant. It's going to be won by maximum effort, everywhere and every day. You have no more right to be absent from your duty here at this plant than a soldier has to be absent from his."

It was at this point that Col. Witte presented the "E" banner to Cobey, Perfection's president, and then honor citations were presented the employed by Lieut. Commander J. M. Sturges of the navy.

The insignias were given Miss Inez Shire, Leslie Sheer and R. C. Hoover as representatives of all employes who later received their insignias individually. Hoover gave the response in behalf of all the employes.

Although brief, one of the most pungent statements made during the ceremony was that of Hoover who declared that the company would continue its production record and promised that Perfection workers would throw the "sweat of their labors right in 'der fuehrer's' face."

The ceremony opened with selections by the Galion high school band, directed by George Rule. The American Legion color guard raised the flag while the band played the national anthem.

Galion's mayor, William Amann, gave a brief address praising the plant for bringing the honor citation to Galion and extended greetings to the guests.

The ceremony was presided over by Robert L. Moulton, Crawford county's representative in the state legislature.

Fewer Lake Erie Fish Going To Market This Year.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Lake Erie fish aren't going to market this season in anything like the volume of former years, a survey of Cleveland fisheries discloses.

The armed forces have taken the men, the navy has requisitioned the boats, the government has frozen the supply of tin for packing, and the twine that once went into fish nets now is going for camouflage, explained M. H. Gangloff, district manager of a large fishery.

BRITISH BOMB 'EUROPE FORT' IN TRIPLE RAID

Blast Italy, France and Ruhr In Thunderous Series of Night Attacks.

It was the first time home-based British planes had bombed Italy since Dec. 11.

An Italian communique said the raiders attacked Turin "in several waves" and indicated that casualties were numerous.

By daylight today, RAF planes carried on the round-the-clock offensives, with big bombing formations escorted by Spitfire squadrons flashing across the channel toward northern France.

Allied aerial blows also hit the Axis in North Africa, where American fliers destroyed 26 German planes and damaged 26 more, with a loss of only 10 of their own aircraft, in violent attacks on the German stronghold at Gabes, in Tunisia.

Other major developments:

Russia—Soviet dispatches declared approximately 200,000 German troops and their satellites were cut off in a narrow coastal sector below Rostov, left to face the terrors of "Black Sea Dunkerque" as the British faced a similar ordeal of fire in their escape from Flanders in 1940.

Two Russian thrusts to or near the Caucasian west coast further threatened the beleaguered 200,000 as the Red armies pursued the same divide-and-annihilate tactis exploited by Adolf Hitler in his early campaigns in France, the lowlands and Russia.

The German radio said Russian marines had landed on the Black Sea coast north of Novorossisk to disrupt any Axis retreat toward the Kerch penninsula for escape across the Kerch strait to the Crimea.

Farther north, along the Sea of Azov, Red army headquarters said the Russians had captured Starominskaya and Kanevskaya, thus cutting every rail line the Axis Caucasian armies might have used for a retreat to Rostov.

Starmoninskaya is 38 miles from the Azov sea port of Yeisk and about 50 miles southwest of Rostov.

Soviet dispatches estimated that about 250,000 other Axis troops were entrenched behind vast fortifications at Rostov, with Red army pincers closing around the base from three directions—30 miles southeast, 56 miles east and 70 miles north.

Simultaneously, London quarters declared that Germany and her allies had lost more than 1,000,000 men in the Russian campaign since last Nov. 19 when the Red armies unleashed their great winter offensive.

North Africa—Uneasy quiet apparently prevailed on both flanks of the two-way Allied offensive, in Tunisia and Libya, but delayed dispatches from the Tunisian front reported American artillery, laying down a flaming barrage of 38-pound shells, turned Axis-held Faid into a "suburb of helil."

Hundreds of the big shells pounded the enemy stronghold on Tuesday night, dispatches said, blasting huge ammunition dumps which exploded for hours, driving a covey of German Mark IV tanks from the town, and starting a great landslide in the mountains south of Fiad.

On the eastern flank, British G.H.Q. reported vanguards of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army carried out patrol activities "in the Tunisian border area" as Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered legions continued their retreat to the Mareth line, 65 miles inside Tunisia.

Without further explanation, a spokesman at Allied headquarters said U. S. armored forces had withdrawn from the Sened railway station in central Tunisia, 180 miles south of Tunis, after "accomplishing the purpose of their mission."

American troops previously had been reported entrenched east of Sened, spearheading a salient aimed at the Gulf of Gabes coast midway between Gabes and Sfax.

The spokesman did not say whether it was a tactical withdrawal to straighten lines or a retreat under pressure.

German headquarters reported merely "fighting of local significance" in Tunisia, while the Italian high command asserted that 1,000 Allied troops had been captured in the past week.

INJURIES FATAL

ASHLAND—Rev. M. L. Dohner will officiate at funeral rites for John Wesley Burns, 72, at Gilbert's Funeral chapel Saturday at 2:30 p. m. with burial to be made in the Whisler cemetery.

Mr. Burns, a life resident of Ashland county, died Thursday at Samaritan hospital following a fall in which he sustained a broken hip at his home, 344 E. Third street. He leaves a brother, George, of Nankin and a number of nieces and nephews.

NO BULBS. NO BELTS. NO STRAPS. CONCAVE PAD on a swivel controls hernia at its source, relieving the condition by removing the weight from the injured muscles. Impossible for rupture to enlarge.

Know your body muscles. We will show you a chart from the best authorities, showing the outline of your abdominal muscles where the rupture originates. Get this clear in your mind, then you will know what type of truss will give you permanent relief.

Bulbs or any egg-shaped pad placed in the opening will cause hernia to enlarge . . . Belts will retard the circulation of the blood, which is essential to a healthy body.

Charitable contributions and 'ts are deductable from gross :ome within certain limitations, d are shown as item 12 in re- rn Form 1040. Limitations as to ductibility are as follows:

1. Only contributions which are tually paid during the year for iich the return is made are de- ctible. Subscriptions or pledges ide but not paid are not de- ctible.

2. Gifts to an individual are not ductible.

3. The amount deductible is iited to 15 per cent of the net 'ome before the deductions for itributions and medical expenses taken. (That is, the amount owable under item 11 of return rm 1040 may not exceed 15 per it of the difference between the ount shown in item 11 and the luctions taken in items 13, 14, 16, and 17 of the return form.)

l. Contributions to a political ty or to any organization, a stantial part of the activities which is carrying on propa- ida or otherwise attempting to luence legislation, are not de- tible.

. Contributions to an organiza- n, any part of the income of which goes to benefit any private shareholder or individual, are not deductible. This provision excludes contributions to hospitals privately operated for profit either by an organization or individuals, irrespective of whether profits are being earned or not.

6. Contributions made in the form of one's personal services are not deductible. The donation of the use of one's automobile, or of one's premises (as for a picnic or garden party), is not deductible as a contribution, even though the organization for which the donation of use is made is one of the category to which contributions in cash or property would be deductible.

In the case of contributions by a partnership, the amount contributed must be apportioned to the partners and included in the contributions made by the partners for the purpose of determining the 15 per cent limitation.

As Block Leaders Heard Details of Share-Ride Program

Civilian defense block leaders in Mansfield and Madison township yesterday planned to swing into action next week with a house-to-house campaign in behalf of saving tires and gasoline through the "share-a-ride" plan Every person will be urged to cooperate in order to cover all forms of driving instead of that shared only by industrial workers. More than 200 of the 500 workers designated to conduct the campaign attended the organization meeting at the American Legion home. At the upper left, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Mansfield coordinator of civilian defense, is shown seated, listening to an address by Delbert L. Pugh of Columbus, chief of war services for the Ohio State Council of Defense Kalbfleisch presided at the meeting. At the upper right, Pugh and Harry E. Neal, chief engineer of traffic and safety of the Ohio department of highways, are shown in an informal pose before the meeting began. Pictured below are some of the block leaders appointed to conduct the canvass.

Casablanca Film Opens Saturday In 2 City Theaters

The first newsreel pictures of the "unconditional surrender" conference at Casablanca to be shown in Mansfield are booked for a four-day screening at both the Ohio and Madison theaters starting Saturday.

Brought back to the United States by plane the RKO-Pathe films present scenes from the historic 10-day conference that took President Roosevelt 4,000 miles from the White House and the British Prime Minister Churchill 1,000 miles from London.

Advance information on the pictures received by Grattan Johnston, city manager of Warner Brothers' theaters, indicates that the newsreels show the preparations made for the safety of the two executives prior to the conference, the all-out patrol in effect during the historic meeting, and the president's review of United States troops.

The newsreels will be shown in connection with the regular bill at both theaters. By a coincidence the Ohio theater's feature "Casablanca," a war drama, is set against the same background as the newsreel subject.

License Applicant Has to Ask Bride-Elect's Name.

MANHATTAN, Kas —(AP)—The young fellow rushed into the probate judge's office and asked for a marriage license.

"What's the bride's name?" asked the clerk. The near-bridegroom was startled. "Gosh," he said, "I don't know. I just call her Dolly!" He hurried away and came back in a minute with the information.

SEEK GARDENERS

VANCOUVER, B. C.—(INS)—Unless Vancouver women can be persuaded to take up the bucket and hoe instead of the washtub and broom, a serious vegetable famine is in prospect, members of the Women's Agriculture committee warn. Market gardeners, the committee said, have declared they are only going to produce enough for themselves next year. Present farm workers may be bonused to stay on the job rather than flock to higher-waged war industries.

Lengthen Passenger Train Schedules

EFFECTIVE FEB. 15, 1943

LET'S get serious about this job of winning the war. Vast quantities of war materials and thousands of troops are now being transported by rail.

To better and more efficiently move the ever-increasing production of essential materials and supplies, North Western-Union Pacific are voluntarily reducing the speed of their regular passenger trains.

We know that all civilians who find it necessary to travel will willingly adjust themselves to slightly longer schedules and, during the duration, to somewhat less travel comfort if conditions so require. Our Nation's welfare must come first at all times.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1943.

Tires owned by Americans are regarded as part of the national resources and not a plaything each individual can use or abuse as he sees fit.—Donald B. Nelson.

When lawns take on a tinge of green, Spring cannot be far behind.

Instead of the 17 pounds of butter a year, to which you have been accustomed, you are to have only 13 pounds—if you can find it.

'Little Steel Formula' Attacked

DEMAND by a half million bituminous coal miners for $2 a day increase in wages is another of the dangerous wartime moves by leaders of organized labor to profit to the greatest possible extent out of the national war emergency—when production of essentials must be kept to the highest possible point, regardless of cost.

Two dollars a day wage increase, per miner, means an additional million dollars a day drain on coal consumers and taxpayers, and, quite naturally, any increase granted bituminous miners will also be made to apply to anthracite miners, for, as John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, says: "I know of no reason why the anthracite demands should be any less modest than the bituminous ones."

It is the so-called "Little Steel formula," adopted by the War Labor Board, that is under attack by labor organizations. This formula prevents wage increases of more than 15 per cent above levels of January 1, 1941. It was designed to match rising living costs between that date and May 1, 1942, beyond which it was theorized that living costs would not rise further because of "price ceilings."

Instead of specific criticism of the miners' demands for wage increases it may be well to consider the whole inflationary picture, of which this is no more than a small segment. War industries are paying excessively high wages, drawing away manpower needed on farms and in other essential lines of work. These earners of abnormal wages compete with earners of smaller wages and salaries in the purchase of commodities and scarce articles of merchandise—so living costs go up and more money is needed by everybody.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, says he told President Roosevelt a few days ago: "You can't stabilize wages unless you stabilize the cost of living," and this reads just as well in reverse: "You can't stabilize living costs unless you stabilize wages."

Whatever the federal administration is attempting to accomplish in the matter of warding off destructive inflation in this country, efforts to date have not proved effective. Demand of miners for wage increases, which are claimed to be justified by higher living costs, offers a case of sufficient importance to warrant decisive action by the government—either in accepting runaway inflation as unavoidable or moving to quell the present inflationary trend.

As Viewed By One Who Pays

AN OPEN LETTER that appeared recently in a metropolitan newspaper addressed to "Dear Senator" and signed by John and Jane Smith, Middleville, U. S. A., points out two very important aspects of the peoples' war effort.

"We know you have to think in big sums and spend a lot of money for the war," the letter reads, "but, try and remember how hard Mother and I worked to buy $200 worth of bonds.

"Don't let them throw our money away or waste even a little. A wasted million dollars won't save any soldiers' lives. And it will hurt five thousand families like ours who sweated it out in bonds and taxes.

"And listen, Senator, don't worry about whether we're going to cooperate or not. We've given Uncle Sam our boys, our businesses, our money, and all our confidence, and if you think anybody that will give this much is going to quibble about a gallon of gasoline or a can of beans, when you took the train to Washington you left all your common sense on the platform back here."

Pound of Coffee Must Last Longer

NOW that it has been decided that a pound of coffee per person must hereafter be extended over six weeks, instead of five, the problem of stretching the supply to even one cup a day will become more serious.

Need for a hot drink of some sort, possibly as a matter of habit, seems more prevalent than actual coffee hunger, as indicated by a current shortage of one of the popular substitute drinks.

Experiments in mixing coffee, half and half, with one of the grain substitutes, is also said to be turning out well in some instances, and at least an occasional excessive coffee drinker is reporting that he feels better and sleeps better since he has cut down on coffee.

So, until supply again equals demand, the present coffee shortage provides opportunity for some interesting experimentation in substitute drinks.

Farmer Expresses His Views

ONE FARMER contributes to the farm problem discussion by writing to a newspaper that if farmers would stop loafing, the manpower shortage would be much less. He says they loaf at the corner store, sitting around growling about a labor shortage, and that any sale, even on a perfect working day, will draw farmers from as far as fifteen miles, just to see who's there, and that they then complain about gas-rationing. He asserts, also, that they won't use the equipment they have, don't keep it in good repair, don't use it enough hours themselves and won't rent it to neighbors who might be making good use of it.

Some of the complaints may be justified, especially the ones dealing with farm machinery. More co-operation in the use of tractors and other machines would probably help the situation. And a farmer might even self-sacrificingly deny himself and his family the pleasure of an occasional "sale" with no harm done.

But when anyone tries to deprive the farmer of cracker-barrel discussion of his country's rights, wrongs, and methods of government, he is attacking one of the inalienable American rights, the denial of which might go far to dry up the springs of American democracy.

It seems quite appropriate that the meat shortage should become a bone of contention.

Man is also becoming a rationing animal.

Obstacles to Post-War Harmony

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — It has been the fashion lately to revile all Americans who opposed the League of Nations in 1918 and to blame the then isolationists for everything that has happened since, particularly for making possible conditions which resulted in Hitler.

The truth probably is that it would have made almost no difference if we had joined the League without reservations. True, there would have been no World war No. 2 if the League had functioned as Woodrow Wilson had expected. It will be recalled that Wilson declared that "Article Ten is the heart of the Covenant." This was the article providing for an international force to crush any aggressor.

But it is obvious, in retrospect, that most of the member nations had no intention, at any time, or under any circumstances, of using Article Ten. For instance, when Japan invaded Manchuria Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson called on Britain to join us in stopping her. Britain said "No." The League did nothing.

The point is that the League would have done nothing had we been a full fledged member, because to take action, under the League covenant, a unanimous vote is required. Presumably Britain would have voted against the action.

* * *

WHAT makes this of interest today is that many Americans, including some of the senators who voted against ratification of the Versailles treaty, opposed entry in the League because they feared that every time any international question was before the League, it would stir up the racial groups in this country, so that we would be fighting each other over every quarrel in Europe.

How accurate that fear was may be judged now by the terrific turmoil raging in this country over the political government in North Africa. Certain groups are trying to high pressure our government into taking action in North Africa which the high officials of our government believe would militate against our military success there.

These groups are spoken for, in part, by a well-known newspaper which has been one of the strongest supporters of the New Deal and the administration generally. It reached the point some days back when a reporter for this newspaper so annoyed Secretary of State Cordell Hull by questions on the North African political situation that the normally urbane and scrupulously polite secretary asked the reporter if he had ever used another name!

* * *

THE POINT IS, if we can get so stirred up by political actions of our government abroad, even when those actions are designed to save the lives of American boys by preventing needless fighting, what sort of differences can we expect when the fighting is over, and this country is torn by every political decision involved in the peace? And during the world policing days that most people expect to follow the peace?

There are cynics who think that in order to bring about the Four Freedoms abroad, it would be necessary to suppress free speech and a free press at home!

Dave Boone Says:

I SEE where Washington has set Feb 22 as the date folks must begin registering for that new ration book and swear how much canned stuff they have in the kitchen already. That's the birthday of George Washington, who never told a lie!

* * *

Of course George never was asked to get in line and come clean with a ration board. It's a lot easier telling the truth about one little cherry tree than about a dozen big cans of the fruit.

* * *

And, after all, his father didn't ask George any questions about soups, vegetables, catsup and chili sauce.

* * *

Still, I think the government was smart setting Washington's birthday as the starting point for the consumer declaration of stuff on hand. There will be a strong temptation for women shoppers to be on the level, anyhow.

* * *

The facts about this new ration book seem a little confusing. Colors, alphabetical letters and points are involved. This point business will make it a good deal like playing the stock market. Your book will be up a point one day and down 3 or 10 the next—with no chance of a rally.

Listen World!

Know What You Want

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU'RE edging on—somewhere between 30 and 40. And you're disgusted. Where've you gotten in life? What have you accomplished?

Oh yes, you've a comfortable apartment. A nice enough husband or wife. Perhaps a couple of youngsters. And you do the usual things. Go to the movies. Play cards. Have the Crowd over for a baked bean spread once in a while. You're not actually hungry or shabby or friendless. Yet you're sick of everything. You don't get the old thrill out of life any more. Other folks seem to enjoy themselves. The kids you went to school with have surged ahead. They're interested, ambitious — full of plans. But you're off the beam.

How do I know these things about you? Because hundreds of men and women just like you write and tell them to me every day. Some are cynical, some are sore, some don't care any more. But they're all sure that someone or something has done them dirt. Everything would have been just Dandy if only—

IF ONLY WHAT? JUST WHAT IS THIS INVISIBLE MENACE WHICH HAS THEM DOWN? IS IT BARELY POSSIBLE THAT IT'S THEMSELVES?

I have been thinking of a line I read lately. Sounds simple at first glance but I've a hunch it holds the secret of most of our human misery.

"We can't do anything until we know what we want."

Nothing very complicated about that, is there? If there's one thing we're sure of it's that we know what we want. Why, we've always known what we wanted.

OR HAVE WE.

It's true that we've always been full of a lather of excitement, curiosity, vague desires, day dreams that changed with every new notion. We've seen ourselves as Hollywood actresses or Big Time Stars. We've run a temperature over scores of career possibilities—law, interior decoration, medicine, art, journalism, Big Business.

BUT HAVE WE REALLY WANTED TO DO ANY OF THESE THINGS? HAVE WE WANTED TO DO THEM SO FIERCELY THAT WE WERE WILLING TO ACCEPT THE LONG DRAWN SACRIFICES AND DRUDGERY THEY ENTAIL?

For wanting means more than wishing.

Wanting means more than indulging in personal, private dreams.

Wanting means a ruthless searching of your own spirit until you find the one thing in life you can't do without . . . and then hold on to that one thing through hell and high water.

Remember how you used to drone through Gray's Elegy in school—

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear—
Full many a flower was born to blush unseen,
To waste its sweetness on the desert air."

That verse is still Hot News. Talent is still a dime a dozen in the local market. Yet yearly they pass unsung—the potential geniuses who might have been Carusos, Michelangelos, Emersons, Edisons, Joan of Arcs and Florence Nightingales. They spent their whole lives wishing for fame which never came their way.

But they didn't fail because some person or condition double crossed them. The grimmest poverty or pain can't hold back the man or woman who knows what he wants and keeps after it. The others pass and are forgotten because they spent their lives wishing—they were chock full of gimmes but they never knew what they wanted.

Interpreting the War News

Week-End of Mourning By Nazis For Soldiers Killed at Stalingrad

—By GLENN BABB

FOR THE REST of this week the German nation will be in mourning for its Sixth army, sacrificed at Stalingrad to Hitler's pride. Doctor Goebbels evidently is out to squeeze the full measure of tragedy from the Sixth army's fate in the hope of putting new iron into the German soul.

Meanwhile the Red army promises to present him with another disaster, should he need it for propaganda purposes, almost before the current period of mourning is over.

Moscow now announces the capture of several highly important towns, but perhaps the most significant is Kushchevka, 43 miles south of Rostov. Its fall means that the German forces remaining in the Caucasus, numbering perhaps a quarter million men, have lost control of the last railway by which they might have escaped overland through Rostov.

Hence the German army's first Dunkerque of the war is taking form. If the Caucasus forces are to avoid the fate of Marshal Paulus and his Sixth army they must get away across the Kerch strait to the Crimea or embark at Novorossisk for a longer sea voyage in the Black sea.

The pattern of retribution stands out in the present plight of the Germans in Russia. It was the Sixth army, now "succumbed to the superior strength of the enemy," which compelled Allied armies to succumb in the 1940 sweep across the Lowlands.

Doubtless many of the soldiers now swarming toward the shores of the western Caucasus were among the divisions which smashed at the British as they huddled on the beach at Dunkerque.

Now it is their turn to know the horror of those long waits under constant terror and destruction from the skies both ashore and aboard ship such as the British experienced along the coasts of France, Greece and Crete.

At several points the Russians have gained the line from which Hitler began last summer's offensive, running almost due north from the coast west of Rostov through Kursk. It should be only a matter of days before they have wiped out nearly all the territorial gains of 1942 which must have cost the fuehrer a million men permanently out of combat, dead, captured or maimed.

In any case it is certain the German army still possesses a terrible strength and Hitler and Goebbels hope it will fight in 1943 with a new desperation born of the conviction the German nation is fighting for its life.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — When President Roosevelt delivered his message to congress, he inadvertently left out the achievement of the Maritime Commission in surpassing his 1942 shipbuilding goals.

The next day he explained that the figures were dropped accidentally from his speech. That belated announcement was anti-climax. It is only now that the actual accomplishments of the Maritime Commission in 1942 are really coming to light.

This is all the more important because Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman, and his commission have been under fire repeatedly. Charges ranging from incompetency through unfair treatment of labor to political log-rolling have been laid at the commission's door.

There is no intention of discussing those charges here. I only want to reiterate what the President took the trouble to emphasize—that the Maritime Commission, in 1942, did a whale of a job. The goal laid down for them was 8,000,000 deadweight tons of shipping. When the president announced (in 1941) this among the production goals for tanks, planes, etc., there wasn't a figure in the lot that seemed more fantastic.

Back in 1937, the commission's program was an average of 50 ships a year. In 1942, the production was 746 ships with an aggregate deadweight tonnage of 8,090,800 tons.

* * *

THERE is more to this, too, than meets the eye. In the course of the year, according to Admiral H. L. Vickery, one of the commissioners, Maritime turned over to the Navy the complete facilities of the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding company, with hulls on the ways, which were near enough to completion to account for 68,644 more tons of shipping.

In addition, there were scores of time-consuming conversions of merchant ships to naval auxiliaries and in recent months 24 "highly productive ways" were diverted to construction of naval vessels.

In other words says the Admiral, if the Maritime Commission had gone through with its program without the necessity of transferring part of its achievements to the Navy (this was merely an observation, not a complaint) it would undoubtedly have reached 10,000,000 deadweight tons of shipping this year—probably the equivalent of 15 to 20 years of peacetime construction.

* * *

ALMOST half the total construction took place on the west coast, a far different situation than existed in World war I. West coast shipyards produced 368 ships, with a total of 3,888,100 tons. The east coast produced 372 vessels, totaling 3,089,500 tons; the Gulf, 97 for slightly more than 1,000,000 tons; and the Great Lakes the balance.

As the president said, these are hardly figures that will bring comfort to the enemy.

Irrespective of what the Maritime Commission turns out in 1943, it appears that one of the Navy's "E's" for Excellence should have gone to Admirals Land and Vickery and Thomas M. Woodward, Edward Macauley and John M. Carmody.

Health and Diet

Study Voice Change

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MEDICAL science is beginning more and more to investigate the common experiences which have been there all the time but have been considered beneath such a complicated, technical science as medicine. The boy who is changing the pitch of his voice from the upper levels to a good, rich baritone often encounters moments when the sound he emits doesn't land just where he anticipates it is going to hit on the scale. This has always been a source of amusement to his companions and elders, but it may be a minor tragedy to him.

So medicine, being the human science which deals with minor and major tragedies, has finally got around to a study of this age-old, common condition.

Adolescence has been called the "fateful passage." It is literally true that many lives are wrecked during that period. An elder, accomplished, teasing brother, who knows all the tricks of the trade, can turn a good boy into what will become in later years a skillful bank robber or a chronic bum, during those formative years.

Usually Last Three Months.

The voice changes are the ones which all the world can notice and while usually the agony is over in the course of about three months and the soprano changes to the baritone, in some cases the change begins and then the boy goes back to the voice of childhood.

Dr. James Gannett Greene, of New York, has an explanation for this by saying that some boys are timid about assuming the grown-up masculine role. The state of adulthood, as he sees himself entering it, terrifies him—its responsibilities and its changes.

All of us who are adults, I think, can understand why that should be—that point of view. So this type of boy unconsciously manifests his attitude by clinging to his high, piping, childish treble.

Through constant use of his high voice, he causes a faulty co-ordination and misdirection of the laryngeal musculature, so that the condition becomes permanent. Dr. Greene recites the case of one man who was 50 years of age and the father of three children who still spoke in a falsetto voice and who, according to his own account, "suffered the tortures of the damned," and shunned all social contacts on that account.

Ways to Help.

There is a definite possibility of help in these children. They often understand the situation very well after a few explanations, and co-operate so that they attain a normally pitched voice for their age. In some cases retardment due to poor endocrine function can be corrected by the use of thyroid and pituitary extract.

Certainly all parents and teachers should make a point to have a talk with a boy who does not settle down to a normal voice range for his age by the age of 16.

A Farmer's Diary

His Peace Plan

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

"THESE are the times that try men's souls — and stretch men's minds," the thoughtful, square-built farmer said. A group of us gathered around to listen, for here is a man who reads and thinks, and what he says usually sums up what's blowing around down in our part of the country.

"I guess we're all too much mixed up in winning a war to see things straight," he went on, "but you and I both know that talk of a beautiful Utopian peace after this war is applesauce!

"People have to eat. People have to make a living — all of them. Not only us, but every nation with muscles and minds. The reason we have better living in this country than most countries have is because we've begun to use science and electricity to multiply our powers, of muscles and of minds. We've begun to use 'em—it's all new yet! Most men past fifty can remember the start of many modern 'necessities'—automobiles and airplanes and radios are good examples. Now here the heads of the government of the world can run back and forth across the oceans to spend week-ends together, like we was all one big community. Which we are—and don't you forget it!

"United States, they say, must help feed the world. There's two ways to help people. One way is to give 'em handouts from your overflowing bounty — like Santa Claus or WPA. The other is to teach 'em to tend a garden, to grow and cook their own food and eat their own cookin'.

"What every self-respecting person or nation needs is work to do that will make it self sustaining. We, here in United States can't afford to be selfish with what we've learned. What we do to help less fortunate peoples of the world will come back to us many fold. Poverty-stricken nations are not good for business. They haven't anything to swap—not anything to add to what we all need. If we teach them how to create for themselves what they need to live and grow, we'll all go marching along together toward better times than the world has ever had. We'll get rid of war like we got rid of smallpox—by removing it at the source. All of us are quick to see a benefit for ourselves—what makes living better for any nation in the world helps to improve every other.

"Let's make our own the best country in the world for our own citizens. Let's help other nations to make their countries the best possible for their own people. Let's insist upon statesmen who'll apply the Golden Rule. 'How to make peace unselfish is going to be the big problem'—true—but an unselfish peace is the only profitable kind."

CHAPTER XXI

Thus she kept him talking. He began to wish she wouldn't, because everything he said sounded banal to him, and probably was. Well, but there you were—you never showed off well when you wanted to. What good was his whole professional training, he wondered grimly now, if all his wits deserted him before this particular audience?

"And you're still a bachelor," Rosalie was saying thoughtfully. "Why is that? I should think you'd have been married—once at least—by this time."

"That's one of those questions with only one answer to it," Hobey said. "Stop me if you've heard this one—I haven't found the right girl."

Their eyes met, casually. "That's odd," Rosalie said. "In a world full of girls, like your world. Would you know her if you did find her?"

"At fifty paces," Hobey said.

"What would she be like?"

"Do you want me to tell you?"

"Why not?" Rosalie said lightly.

"It's a little personal. She'd be like you, of course. You must know that."

They were both smiling, and Rosalie said, "Yes, wouldn't that be interesting, if it were only true? Let's pretend it is. Tell me more about it."

"All right," Hobey said. "It all goes back to my barefoot boyhood—you know. Those impressionistic years. You were the only girl in the world; and to make a long story short, you still are."

"This is lovely," Rosalie said. "I love this story. Do go on."

"No, on the whole, I think not," he said. "Continued in our next. I mean you'll have to ask me here again to hear the rest of it."

"But of course you're coming again," Rosalie said. "And often. We're going to be great friends—aren't we?"

"That's what I hope," he said inadequately.

"But of course," said Rosalie. And then she said a curious thing, and said it so earnestly that he had to believe it. "That's what I need."

It was seven o'clock when he left her apartment, finally. He decided against a taxi when he reached the street, and he walked a long way, feeling wonderful—feeling as though he were drunk and lighthearted. Everything contributed—the crisp autumn air, the midnight blue of New York sky, that was like no other blue; and the single star hung up there, to be wished on. He had no objective, he simply walked; he had no desire to get anywhere or to be anywhere. Then suddenly, after a while, he thought, "Flowers," and that gave him a destination, and something of a problem too, because he must find a florist shop that was open at this hour. He started for Grand Central then, and found one there, or near there.

But nothing he saw suited him, the morning's cut of flowers looked tired by now . . . He reflected that he didn't know what sort of flowers she liked anyway, that as a matter of fact he didn't know any of her tastes in life, and that he wanted to learn them all, to the last one. His mind marshalled the few he did know and reviewed them, lingering on each one. She liked lots of soda with Scotch. She smoked cigarets through a paper holder . . . Little things like that were to be memorized and treasured.

He sent her twelve white orchids with reddish-purple hearts, laid out beautifully in a big cardboard box. He superintended their arrangement in the box, and he wouldn't accede to the salesman's suggestion that two or three of the orchids be bound into a corsage. "No, just as they are," he said. There was a stand-up writing desk at the rear of the shop, with cards and envelopes. He spoiled a number of cards with a number of sentiments that wouldn't do at all, and finally he wrote simply "Hobey." Because there was no saying it.

* * *

He would telephone on Monday morning—and he was amused to find that the prospect was so exciting that it woke him early, much too early. Nine o'clock. He hadn't been awake at nine o'clock since he could remember. Rosalie certainly wouldn't be available at such an hour, and he turned over and tried hard to get back to sleep again, but it was no use. Finally he reached for cigarets on his bedside table and lay smoking that first cough-making cigaret before-breakfast smoke of the day—he lay on his back and looked at the ceiling and at the room, and the things in the room. And he thought suddenly, "I've lived here too long. Look at the damn place; it's a shambles. Why don't I get out of here and get a decent apartment?" Well why not? High time. It was funny what ruts you got into, and how familiarity blinded you so you didn't even see things any more. Scarred furniture, cracked plaster, dingy walls. Today he'd go apartment-hunting—he'd get an agent to give him a list; and if he found what he wanted, he'd get a decorator to do it.

He did that; he got a new little apartment, fresh and clean and colorful, and decorated by a professional with taste and imagination. Rosalie was enthusiastic when she saw it, completed, some weeks later. He gave a cocktail party for her, as a kind of housewarming. And the new apartment wasn't all—it was only the first of a number of changes in his mode of living, changes which he described to himself as getting out of the rut he'd been in.

Everybody began to notice the difference in him. Ruby was the first, of course; a close second was Mae McLean of Ruby's chorus, who had been his special girl for the past half year. There was always a special one; there always had been. But now he simply ended that affair—and simply because he was bored with it. "I know. You've got another girl," Mae said; and Hobey said, "It isn't that." It wasn't either, in the way she meant. It was that he had another idea.

Actually he was looking things over and coming to certain conclusions. Until he had begun seeing Rosalie again, he had thought that he'd achieved quite a good deal; but now, looking at himself through her eyes, it wasn't good enough. The success he had been proud of begun to seem commonplace and meretricious, and he found himself asking, "Where do you go from here, Hadley?" He even did a few things about it—he wrote some more song lyrics to tunes by Eddie Nye of Ruby's orchestra, and he began to shop around to see if he could get some radio work to do in his free time. He had a lot of free time, after all, and he hadn't been doing much of anything with it; he wasn't sure that these things he was doing now were constructive things, but at least they were small new departures that might eventually lead somewhere.

Certainly Rosalie was the cause of all this, but sometimes he wondered why, exactly, because he really didn't see her a great many times during the months that followed—not nearly as often as he tried to. It began to seem that whenever he called her she was away somewhere, or just about to go away. This happened so often that at first he kept concluding that she didn't want to see him—but it didn't seem to be that, because she always called him up as soon as she got back. "Come straight over here this minute, Hobey! I've got so much to tell you."

THEATERS

Moroccan Drama.

Casablanca, scene of the recent meeting of the president and Winston Churchill, furnishes the local for a thrilling war drama by the same name, "Casablanca," opening Saturday at the Ohio. Starring Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman and Paul Henreid, the picture deals with a group of refugees from war-torn Europe and their attempts to secure exit visas, the romance of Bogart and Miss Bergman is prominently featured. Claude Rains and Sydney Greenstreet are in the production.

* * *

Hilarious Comedy.

Written and produced to furnish fun and no message Preston Sturges' new comedy, "The Palm Beach Story," opening Saturday at the Madison, teams Claudette Colbert and Joel McCrea in the type of picture that made "The Lady Eve" and "Sullivan's Travels" such sheer entertainment. Rudy Vallee and Mary Astor top the supporting cast with Vallee playing the role of a wealthy young man and Miss Astor the part of his matrimonially-minded sister. The story shows what happens when a romantic young couple still in love after five years, go their own separate ways so that the husband can get ahead financially.

* * *

Oil Thriller.

Roaring drama of the fight to wrest oil from the earth, "Wildcat," the Ritz attraction opening today, teams Richard Arlen and Arline Judge in a thrilling story of the west and quest for fortune. Arlen plays a man of action who strikes oil and then has his claim challenged by rivals. Miss Judge plays the confederate of a confidence man who changes her tune when she falls in love with Arlen. "The Sheriff of Sage Valley," with Al St. John is the co-feature.

Reveals U. S. Spends $7,000,000 For Barges, Gets None

FIRM'S HEAD TELLS STORY TO SENATORS

Questioning Bares Involved Financing Between Ship Corporations.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Congress today was given the details of how the government has spent $7,000,000 to date on a 23 barge construction project without receiving even one barge.

The story was unfolded before the Senate Truman committee by Clifford E. McEvoy, president of the Clifford McEvoy Shipbuilding Corporation, whose operations in ts shipyards at Savannah, Ga., nd a housing project in Winfield Park, N. J., are under scrutiny by he justice department.

Under questioning by committee ounsel, McEvoy related how he obtained an original contract for ive barges and a supplemental ontract for 18 more, for a corporation that has no assets, stands to nake a profit of $1,250,000 and asn't yet delivered a barge.

Sen. Harry S. Truman (D) Mo., ommittee chairman, announced everal weeks ago, following a preious examination of McEvoy, that ircumstances surrounding a Winield Park, N. J., housing project, nd the barge building contract at avannah, had been turned over o the department of justice for inestigation. The McEvoy comany held contracts on both projects.

An amazing account of involved financial transactions between various corporations owned by McEvoy and his family, through which the barge buildng contracts were obtained, was rought out through questioning of McVey.

He said that the first barge on e original contract would be de-vered Feb. 28, a year behind hedule. Attaches of the Truan committee said today is the elivery date for the ninth barge the supplemental contract.

Testimony brought out in the earing revealed the contract ice for the first five barges was ,741,460, and that the company ready has spent $1,466,835, of hich $760,497 is charged to overad.

The overhead, it was revealed at e hearing included salaries and penses for numerous relatives of cEvoy and rental of equipment rchased months ago by two Mcoy subsidiaries, part of which s used in the Winfield Park using propect and part on the vannah barge project.

Three From County Defense Council To Attend School.

The Richland county council of defense will send three representatives to Purdue university next week to attend the war department's civil protection course on the subject: "Technique of Protection."

The men, Rev. O. S. Goerner, of Lucas, Rev. Nevin B. Stover, of Shiloh, and D. A. Spayde, of Butler, will leave Sunday morning. The course closes Feb. 12. Upon their return, they will be prepared to relay their information to other civilian defense workers and the public generally.

GETS DETAILS ON NEW SYSTEM

Civilian Defense Chairman Gets Instructions on Air Raid Signals.

Details of Ohio's new air raid warning system have been received by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Mansfield's civilian defense coordinator, and, instructions are being prepared for wardens and chiefs of other war protection services and industrial plant protection officers.

According to Ralph H. Stone, state defense director, the revised system will be the same as is used by eastern seaboard states and its adoption was decided on after a year-long survey by army and OCD officers.

Features of the new system include:

Blue Signal—First public warning, consisting of a long, steady blast advising of the probable approach of enemy planes. On the signal, Stone said, civilian defense personnel will take their posts and blackout measures will be placed in effect, except for certain war plants and transportation which will continue under precautionary arrangements.

Red Signal—Actual raid alarm, consisting of wailing or choppy blasts and meaning that hostile planes are overhead and that all pedestrians should take cover.

Blue Signal - Another steady blast, signaling that enemy planes have departed but that caution should be observed lest they return immediately.

No "all clear" will be sounded but radio announcements and relighting of street lamps will indicate the danger has passed. At present, the first public alarm is a wailing or choppy signal calling for blackout conditions, followed by a steady "all clear" blast advising that the raid has ended.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR CHURCH CENSUS OPENING NEXT MONDAY

Mansfield Religious Census organization completed plans today for the launching of a house-to-house canvass Monday night to determine the church preference of every household in Mansfield.

Although the start of the conference is still three days away, about five per cent of the 1,000 workers named for the canvass have completed their rounds and submitted final reports to the census headquarters in the Walpark building.

Ralph Stanton, general chairman, said that complete reports had been slowly filtering into headquarters for several days and that the workers reported "hearty cooperation" from every home contacted so far. Workers, he again pointed out, have been instructed to obtain only factual information and have been cautioned not to engage in controversy when making their calls.

Ministers of the 33 churches participating in the census will head the undertaking as colonels. Precinct majors and census workers come from the ranks of the membership of the cooperating churches.

The names of persons not having a church home but denoting a preference for a particular denomination will be referred to the churches in question after the census. The project is entirely non sectarian and its sponsors include Protestant, Catholic and Jewish organizations.

RICHLAND T. B. GROUP ELECTS

Wayne Carlton, Shelby, Named To Head Association at Organization Session.

Wayne Carlton, Shelby, was elected president of the Richland County Tuberculosis association at last night's annual meeting in the city-county health department offices. Carlton succeeds Dr. Francis Heringhaus, now a major in the Army Medical corps.

Other officers for 1943 are: Jesse Clark, principal of Western avenue school, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Gorman, re-elected treasurer; Robert Green, Shelby, re-elected secretary. Mrs. Margaret S. Adams continues as executive secretary and director of field operations.

Members of the board of directors are Dr. W. H. Wolford, Mrs. Zora Weimer and Mrs. Emma Belle Fort of Mansfield; Mrs. Ruth Newcomer, Lexington; Miss Mary Lucille Bushey, Shelby, and Dr. Esther Mast, Lexington.

Creation of an advisory board was decided on with Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner; Dr. B. H. Moffat, Shelby health commissioner; Dr. Orrin Beatty, Boyd Robinson, county schools superintendent, and Superintendent W. L. Miller of Mansfield public schools being named. These members will name associates representing the Richland County Medical society.

R. L. Lewis of the Ohio Public Health association, Columbus, was a guest. He paid high tribute to the progress of Richland county's war against tuberculosis and commended the association for a successful Christmas Seal sale which finances the program.

DIES AT AGE 79

BUCYRUS — Funeral arrangements are pending for Jacob Mollenkopf, 79, retired farmer, who died Thursday at his home north of Oceola.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Rosa Spiegel Mollenkopf, and four children, William Fred of Bucyrus, Mrs. Cora Roush of Tiffin, Walter J. at home, and Mrs. Maude F. Leonhart of Youngstown.

CONVENTION ADOPTS MANSFIELD MINISTER'S RECOMMENDATION

A Mansfield minister's recommendation for an enlarged religious education program in the public schools throughout Ohio was unanimously adopted at the closing session of the 24th annual Ohio Pastors' convention in Columbus yesterday.

Rev. J. Campbell White of the United Presbyterian church presented the recommendation which called for a thorough discussion of the subject at the 1944 state convention. The plan provides for the placement of qualified religious education instructors in the schools and optional enrollment by the pupils.

The Mansfield Council of Religious Education recently voted to raise a $10,000 budget before April 1, in order to supply religious education instruction to all grades in the local schools. At present only the third and fourth grades are receiving instruction.

The convention attended by 1,975 registered delegates and highlighted by the appearance of such notables as Dr. E. Stanley Jones, former missionary to India, and Carl J. Hambro, president of the League of Nations, drew six Mansfield ministers. They were: Rev. E. G. Corwin, Rev. A. L. Linder, Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, Rev. J. L. Boyer, Rev. C. L. Kern, and Rev. White.

RITES SUNDAY

J. J. High, 81, Was Farmer at New Washington.

NEW WASHINGTON — John Jacob High, 81, retired farmer, died at his home in New Washington Thursday after an illness of eight months.

He was born on April 26, 1861, in Cranberry township, Crawford county, the son of Michael and Mary Donnenwirth High. His marriage to Miss Ellen Tribolet occurred on April 9, 1885, Mrs. High preceding him in death on Nov. 12, 1941.

Five children survive, Mrs. A. G. Eckstein, Mrs. C. L. Springer and Mrs. Marie Neagel of New Washington, Carl of Muskegon, Mich., and John of Kokomo, Ind. W. A. High, Rudolph High and Miss Mary High are brothers and sisters.

Baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran church, Mr. High remained a faithful member of St. John's church where funeral services will be conducted on Sunday at 2:30 p. m., with Rev. Paul Gerlach officiating. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

SHE'S WORRIED

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan, of Waterloo, Ia., has one worry besides the navy report that her five sons are missing aboard the U. S. S. Juneau. She's afraid she won't get home by next week—in time to pay her gas bill.

"It's been a wonderful trip so far," the Sullivans, a little breathless from the whirlwind tour of defense plants in Washington and Baltimore, agree. Sullivan, who lets "the Mrs." do most of the talking, said he will appeal to war workers to maintain a perfect attendance record.

Start Check of Ballots Marked For Y. W. Election

Ballots for the election of eight Y. W. C. A. trustees and a five-member nominating committee will be counted Saturday by the tellers appointed by the organization to give the report at the annual business meeting of the association Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the building.

The two slates were recently mailed to the membership and ballots arriving after the tellers begin their count Saturday will be disqualified. The eight trustees will be elected from a slate of 11 and the nominating committee from a slate of eight.

Mrs. Irl Fischer, president, will preside at the meeting which is open to the entire membership. Miss Dorothy Dann, chairman, will report for the nominating committee including Mrs. Carl Spangler and Miss Edna Eckert.

Annual reports will be submitted by Miss Bertha A. Gregory, executive secretary, and Mrs. Jessie Crane, secretary of Girl Reserves and recreation. A devotional service will precede the business.

CHAPTER XXI

Thus she kept him talking. He began to wish she wouldn't, because everything he said sounded banal to him, and probably was. Well, but there you were—you never showed off well when you wanted to. What good was his whole professional training, he wondered grimly now, if all his wits deserted him before this particular audience?

"And you're still a bachelor," Rosalie was saying thoughtfully. "Why is that? I should think you'd have been married—once at least—by this time."

"That's one of those questions with only one answer to it," Hobey said. "Stop me if you've heard this one—I haven't found the right girl."

Their eyes met, casually. "That's odd," Rosalie said. "In a world full of girls, like your world. Would you know her if you did find her?"

"At fifty paces," Hobey said.

"What would she be like?"

"Do you want me to tell you?"

"Why not?" Rosalie said lightly.

"It's a little personal. She'd be like you, of course. You must know that."

They were both smiling, and Rosalie said, "Yes, wouldn't that be interesting, if it were only true? Let's pretend it is. Tell me more about it."

"All right," Hobey said. "It all goes back to my barefoot boyhood—you know. Those impressionistic years. You were the only girl in the world; and to make a long story short, you still are."

"This is lovely," Rosalie said. "I love this story. Do go on."

"No, on the whole, I think not," he said. "Continued in our next. I mean you'll have to ask me here again to hear the rest of it."

"But of course you're coming again," Rosalie said. "And often. We're going to be great friends—aren't we?"

"That's what I hope," he said inadequately.

"But of course," said Rosalie. And then she said a curious thing, and said it so earnestly that he had to believe it. "That's what I need."

It was seven o'clock when he left her apartment, finally. He decided against a taxi when he reached the street, and he walked a long way, feeling wonderful—feeling as though he were drunk and lighthearted. Everything contributed—the crisp autumn air, the midnight blue of New York sky, that was like no other blue; and the single star hung up there, to be wished on. He had no objective, he simply walked; he had no desire to get anywhere or to be anywhere. Then suddenly, after a while, he thought, "Flowers," and that gave him a destination, and something of a problem too, because he must find a florist shop that was open at this hour. He started for Grand Central then, and found one there, or near there.

But nothing he saw suited him, the morning's cut of flowers looked tired by now . . . He reflected that he didn't know what sort of flowers she liked anyway, that as a matter of fact he didn't know any of her tastes in life, and that he wanted to learn them all, to the last one His mind marshalled the few he did know and reviewed them, lingering on each one. She liked lots of soda with Scotch. She smoked cigarets through a paper holder . . . Little things like that were to be memorized and treasured.

He sent her twelve white orchids with reddish-purple hearts, laid out beautifully in a big cardboard box. He superintended their arrangement in the box, and he wouldn't accede to the salesman's suggestion that two or three of the orchids be bound into a corsage. "No, just as they are," he said. There was a stand-up writing desk at the rear of the shop with cards and envelopes. He spoiled a number of cards with a number of sentiments that wouldn't do at all, and finally he wrote simply "Hobey" Because there was no saying it.

* * *

He would telephone on Monday morning—and he was amused to find that the prospect was so exciting that it woke him early, much too early. Nine o'clock. He hadn't been awake at nine o'clock since he could remember. Rosalie certainly wouldn't be available at such an hour, and he turned over and tried hard to get back to sleep again, but it was no use. Finally he reached for cigarets on his bedside table and lay smoking that first cough-making cigaret before-breakfast smoke of the day—he lay on his back and looked at the ceiling and at the room, and the things in the room. And he thought suddenly, "I've lived here too long. Look at the damn place; it's a shambles. Why don't I get out of here and get a decent apartment?" Well why not? High time. It was funny what ruts you got into, and how familiarity blinded you so you didn't even see things any more. Scarred furniture, cracked plaster, dingy walls. Today he'd go apartment-hunting—he'd get an agent to give him a list; and if he found what he wanted, he'd get a decorator to do it.

He did that; he got a new little apartment, fresh and clean and colorful, and decorated by a professional with taste and imagination. Rosalie was enthusiastic when she saw it, completed, some weeks later. He gave a cocktail party for her, as a kind of housewarming. And the new apartment wasn't all—it was only the first of a number of changes in his mode of living, changes which he described to himself as getting out of the rut he'd been in.

Everybody began to notice the difference in him Ruby was the first, of course; a close second was Mae McLean of Ruby's chorus, who had been his special girl for the past half year. There was always a special one; there always had been. But now he simply ended that affair—and simply because he was bored with it. "I know. You've got another girl," Mae said; and Hobey said. "It isn't that." It wasn't either, in the way she meant. It was that he had another idea.

Actually he was looking things over and coming to certain conclusions. Until he had begun seeing Rosalie again, he had thought that he'd achieved quite a good deal; but now, looking at himself through her eyes, it wasn't good enough. The success he had been proud of begun to seem commonplace and meretricious, and he found himself asking, "Where do you go from here, Hadley?" He even did a few things about it—he wrote some more song lyrics to tunes by Eddie Nye of Ruby's orchestra, and he began to shop around to see if he could get some radio work to do in his free time. He had a lot of free time, after all, and he hadn't been doing much of anything with it; he wasn't sure that these things he was doing now were constructive things, but at least they were small new departures that might eventually lead somewhere.

Certainly Rosalie was the cause of all this, but sometimes he wondered why, exactly, because he really didn't see her a great many times during the months that followed—not nearly as often as he tried to. It began to seem that whenever he called her she was away somewhere, or just about to go away. This happened so often that at first he kept concluding that she didn't want to see him—but it didn't seem to be that, because she always called him up as soon as she got back. "Come straight over here this minute, Hobey! I've got so much to tell you."

Muslin is so named after the city of Mosul where it was first made.

THEATERS

Moroccan Drama.

Casablanca, scene of the recent meeting of the president and Winston Churchill, furnishes the local for a thrilling war drama by the same name, "Casablanca," opening Saturday at the Ohio. Starring Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman and Paul Henreid, the picture deals with a group of refugees from war-torn Europe and their attempts to secure exit visas, the romance of Bogart and Miss Bergman is prominently featured. Claude Rains and Sydney Greenstreet are in the production.

* * *

Hilarious Comedy.

Written and produced to furnish fun and no message Preston Sturges' new comedy, "The Palm Beach Story," opening Saturday at the Madison, teams Claudette Colbert and Joel McCrea in the type of picture that made "The Lady Eve" and "Sullivan's Travels" such sheer entertainment. Rudy Vallee and Mary Astor top the supporting cast with Vallee playing the role of a wealthy young man and Miss Astor the part of his matrimonially-minded sister. The story shows what happens when a romantic young couple still in love after five years, go their own separate ways so that the husband can get ahead financially.

* * *

Oil Thriller.

Roaring drama of the fight to wrest oil from the earth, "Wildcat," the Ritz attraction opening today, teams Richard Arlen and Arline Judge in a thrilling story of the west and quest for fortune. Arlen plays a man of action who strikes oil and then has his claim challenged by rivals. Miss Judge plays the confederate of a confidence man who changes her tune when she falls in love with Arlen. "The Sheriff of Sage Valley," with Al St. John is the co-feature.

* * *

Aviation Episode.

Adding another world figure to her list of famous characterizations Anna Neagle brings the life of Amy Johnson Mollison, noted English flyer, to the Park screen in "Wings and the Woman," currently showing at the Park. Filmed in England against the authentic backgrounds the film traces the rise to fame of the daring aviatrix whose marriage to another flying ace was followed by an untimely death while in the service of her country. Robert Newton has the role of Jim Mollison and the cast includes several English players. "Sunset Serenade," the co-feature has George "Gabby" Hayes.
